FILLEY ON MACK.

Jos. Babington Macaulay McCullagh Does Not Disturb Washington.

Chauncey Says Joseph Found He Was Fighting Wind.

National Barnacles—Fitz Porter to be Reinstated—Washington News—Political.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—Mr. Filley says that he is satisfied that, notwithstanding the visit of Jos. Babington Macaulay McCullagh, the Potomac still courses its way undisturbed to the sea; that its depths are undisturbed; that the public buildings still stand undisturbed upon their foundations; that the Executive still stands; that the President still lives, disturbed only by

JOSEPH'S LONG UNANSWERED TALK;

it does not require a pass for any Missourian to get into the departments of the White House; that the dome of the Capitol still stadns. Joseph found that he was fighting wind, that whatever was being done practically was being done through the State Republican Committee; that no removals had been recommended by it of any Presidential official in Missouri; that Mr. Filley had not made a single recommendation of that kind. It appears that the only recommendations of that kind have emanated from the Globe-Democrat office, and they have recommended changes in every Federal office in St. Louis nearly except the Post-office and the Marshal's. Mr. Filley says that all matter concerning the politics of Missouri of which Mr. Macaulay McCullagh feels aggrieved, wil be settled inside the State of Missouri. Mr. Filley stands as the unanimous selection of the State Convention for the State Committee at large, and was by the State Committee unanimous-elected its chairman. When Joseph holds any such relationship to the party Mr. Filley will consult him, as he has heretofore shown by the record his disposition to do the G.-D. upon any party matter that affected the State. Mr. Filley seems entirely satisfied with his standing and is not seeking any position.

The Condition of Thos. Allen.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 22.—The condition of the Hon. Thos. Allen is little changed to-day. Your correspondent called at the hotel to see his son, and was informed by him that the family is hopeful yet.

HIS CONDITION IS VERY SERIOUS.

"His condition is fairly told in the Post editorial this morning," said the junior Mr. Allen. The editorial referred to is as follows: "The friends of the Hon. Thos. Allen, of the Second Missouri District, will deeply regret to learn that the illness from which he has been suffering ever since his arrival in Washington has assumed a more serious phase, and his family, who are now with him at the Arlington, are exceedingly anxious, if not apprehensive, as to the result. Though comparatively unknown in political life, Mr. Allen has a business career of remarkable success, and possesses abilities that would qualify him for conspicuous usefulness and influence in Congress. A citizen of Missouri and St. Louis for many years, he has contributed largely to the development of the resources of the State and the railway interests of the West, accumulating great wealth and enjoying the universal esteem of the public. It is much to be hoped that he will safely pass the present crisis in his disease, and be yet afforded the opportunity which he so much desires to actively represent the interests of his constituents on the floor of the House."

The Fitz John Porter Case.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—The President and Cabinet have, so it is semi-officially announced, decided in favor of the restoration of Fitz John Porter to the army. The only question under consideration in connection with the case that is undecided is as to Porter's back pay. When cashiered he held rank as Colonel of the regular army, and as Major-General of volunteers. The question is whether his back pay as Major-General would accrue to him up to his reinstatement or whether it would terminate in 1866, when the other Major-Generals were mustered out of service. This question has been referred to the Attorney-General for his opinion. The President will nominate Porter as Colonel of Infantry to fill the first vacancy, and Porter will probably ask to be retired.

DISTRESS IN THE SOUTH.

There seems to be more truth in the reports of distress in Eastern Arkansas and Northern Louisiana than has been supposed. Congressman Dunn, of Arkansas, has received a number of letters and dispatches from public officials, prominent citizens and the chairmen of relief committees, setting forth the danger in strong terms, and he has introduced a resolution to authorize the Secretary of War to issue rations in his discretion and extend such other aid as shall appear to be necessary. The resolution has been referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

The Franklin Collection.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—The Joint Committee on Library held a meeting to-day to consider the advisability of recommending the purchase of the Stephens collection of manuscripts and rare printed books written by or relating to Benjamin Franklin, which are offered the Government for £7,000 sterling. They comprise all papers bequeathed by Franklin to his grandson, Wm. Temple Franklin, and include some 24,000 documents specially selected by Dr. Franklin for preservation after his retirement from public affairs and never printed. Assistant Secretary Davis, Dr. Edward Everett Hale and Librarian Dwight, of the State Department, were present and favored the purchase. Indications are the Joint Committee will report favoring the purchase.

The entire House Elections Committee will to-morrow act on the Utah contest. Arguments have been concluded, and, while there have been no formal expressions of opinion by the committee, it is generally believed they will decide alike against Cannon's eligibility and the claim of Campbell to the seat, and will refer the matter to the people for a new election.

Guiteau and the Avenger.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—Sergeant Mason, the attempted avenger of Garfield's death, comes into public notice as Guiteau drops out. The trial of Mason is likely to last a week or ten days yet. Since the shooting on September 11, he has been confined in a narrow, dark cell with a wooden bunk for a bed. There is no light in the cell at all, and during the night, the prisoner says, he cannot sleep

FROM DEFENDING HIMSELF FROM RATS.

He is not so comfortably fixed as was Guiteau who has a clean, light and airy cell, and until recently has been allowed to see all who called. Mason is not a little indignant that Guiteau should have been granted the privilege of selling his pictures and autograph, a privilege which he is denied.

GUITEAU

passed this morning in the usual quiet of jail life. The warden says he has become anxious of late to see visitors, and being deprived of that pleasure is frequently restless. The only persons entitled to visit him are Congressmen, but Guiteau complains that he receives as little attention from this class now as he did in the days of his political career in New York.

Report on Dakota.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—The report of the Sub-Committee on Territories contains the following: The division of Dakota and the erection of the Territory of North Dakota, dividing the Territory in the 46th parallel, shows a wonderful growth in the northern part of the Territory in the past eighteen months. The number of post-offices have increased from 86 to 146 and the sales of postage stamps and postal cards, etc. doubled. The number of miles of railroads have increased 260 to 588; school houses from fifteen to 136; churches from nine to forty-nine. Taxable property from $7,324,700 to $15,388,847. There are no relations in common between the Northern and southern portions of the State, and not even a wagon-road, aside from the military road, between them. The population of the Northern part of the State is estimated at over $200,000. The area of the proposed new Territory is greater than all of New England.

Dakota Land Districts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 22.—Congressmen Hepburn and Straight have under consideration the bill to provide two new land districts in Dakota. The proposition at first was to make three districts, but the Commissioner of the General Land Office reported when asked his opinion in favor of but two. It is expected the sub-committee will report this week and the bill will go on the calender in a few days.

THE HENNEPIN.

The Illinois and Iowa delegations still talk about deciding on some programme with reference to the bills to appropriate money for the Hennepin and Illinois and Michigan canals, in order to have no clashing of interests, but so far they have done nothing. They seem to lack some one to take the initiation in the matter.

Indicted for Perjury.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 22.—In addition to those presented for indictment for conspiracy in the Star route cases, additional presentments were brought in yesterday afternoon: J. R. Miner, for perjury in connection with the route from Bismarck to Ft. Keogh and the route from St. Charles to Greehorn; J. L. Sanderson for perjury in connection with the route from Saquatch to Lake City; John W. Dorsey for perjury in connection with the route from Pueblo to Rosita, and the route from Trinidad to Madison City; M. C. Reertell for subordination of perjury in connection with the route from Rawlings to White River; John W. Peck, for perjury in connection with the route from Kearney, Neb., to Kent, and the route from Eugene City to Bridge Creek, Col.

A Holiday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—Springer is considering the advisability of offering a resolution calling for an investigation of the Chili-Peru matter, but has not yet decided whether to do so or not.

This being a legal holiday and the first day of Lent as well, the national capital presents a dull appearance, the wheels of the Government are temporarily stopped, and no public business is being prosecuted. The Capitol is deserted and locked up. President Arthur attended services at St. John's this morning.

Democratic Slate in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, February 22.—It is understood that the following slate has been fixed up for the Democratic nomination for State officers at the coming convention, and that the party leaders are pledged to its support: For Secretary of State, William R. Myers, of Madison county; for Auditor of State, Mahlon D. Manson, of Montgomery county; for Treasurer of State, John J. Cooper, of Marion county; for Clerk of the Supreme Court, Henry S. Cauthorn, of Knox county; for Reporter of the Supreme Court, Samuel B. Kerr, of Floyd county.

Secretaryship of the Interior.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—A feeling is prevalent among the Senators that the President will not now make a change in the Secretaryship of the Interior. It is believed that at one time he decided to put Sargent in the place, but could not, owing to the fact that a heavy case in which he was interested was pending. This caused so much procrastination that it is thought he will probably keep Kirkwood.

Mormon Astuteness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—Gentlemen familiar with the devious ways of the Mormon brotherhood are by no means certain that the passage of any law, however rigorous in character, will be sufficient to stamp out polygamy. They hold that without a special force of agents and detectives to execute the measure passed by the Senate it will become a dead letter.

Lands for Jewish Refugees.

PHILADELPHIA, February 22.—An offer to give lands to Jewish refugees comes from North Carolina.

BRADLAUGH BOUNCED.

The Atheist Again Expelled From the House of Commons.

Castellar Calls on the Latins to Unite Against the Slavs.

Celebration of Washington's Birthday in Egypt—English Races—Foreign News.

England.

LONDON, February 22.—The document which Bradlaugh signed and left upon the table of the House of Commons turned out to be a copy of the Parliamentary oath. It is considered that it will be difficult to challenge his legal position as a duly sworn member of the House.

THE LAND ACT

It is announced in the morning papers that should the House of Lords insist upon an inquiry into the working of the Irish Land Act, the Government will refuse to furnish the funds to meet the expenses of the commission.

THE SANDOWN PRIZE.

LONDON, February 22.—The race for the Sandown grand prize was won by Scot Guard, Minnie Hauk second, Falmouth third. Pierans also ran.

The hurdle race was won by Jolly Sire; John Keepway second; Floating Feather third. Six ran.

AID TO JEWISH REFUGEES.

TORONTO, February 22.—A London cable special says: Cardinal Manning presided at an influential meeting of the executive committee of the Mansion House fund for the relief of Russo-Jewish refugees and a subcommittee was appointed to select places for the formation of agricultural settlements. Ten thousand pounds was placed at the disposal of the committee.

BRADLAUGH EXPELLED.

LONDON, February 22.—Northcote's motion expelling Bradlaugh from the House of Commons passed the House by a vote of 291 to 83.

GLADSTONE ON BRADLAUGH.

LONDON, February 22.—In the House of Commons Gladstone this afternoon stated a motion to issue a new writ for Northampton would relieve the House from the difficulty, but as Bradlaugh had not sat during the debate his conduct was not such as would vacate his seat. Gladstone reiterated the House had acted beyond its powers in preventing Bradlaugh taking the oath, but Bradlaugh's conduct was an act of flagrant disobedience to the House, but not to the chair. He would leave the question to the majority, giving it his assistance.

Northcote complained of the conduct of Gladstone, but said it was not for him to assume a leader's duties. He therefore confined himself to moving, as an amendment, that Bradlaugh be prevented from entering the precincts of the House.

FORTY MEN LOST.

LONDON, February 22.—The wreckage from the steamer City of London, from London, November 13, for New York, which never reached its destination, is continually washing upon the Irish coast. A signal locker was found bearing the name of the vessel. The vessel carried no passengers, but its officers and crew numbered about forty. Its chief business was in the cattle-carrying trade.

Egypt.

LONDON, February 22.—A Cairo dispatch says Consul-General Wolff and the Americans here gave a grand banquet in honor of Washington's birthday to the Egyptian Ministry and twenty members of the Egyptian Parliament. The Prime Minister, Araby Bey, and the Speaker of the Parliament pronounced elegant eulogiums on Washington, saying his work begun in America had taken root in Egypt. There were 200 guests, including Phelps, Minister at Vienna, Senator Emory and the officers of the Lancaster and Quinnebaug, now at Alexandria. The French and English Consuls-General, and also the Comptrollers, expressed the warmest sympathy with America, but declined the invitations.

Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, February 22.—Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador, and M. Tissot, the French Ambassador, have presented identical notes to the Porte, replying to the Sultan's communication on the joint note to the Khedive. They maintain that abundant precedents exist for direct communication with the Khedive.

Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, February 22.—The Official Messenger repudiates Gen. Skobeleff's speeches, and says they are his private utterances and are without the authority of the Russian Government, and cannot affect the friendly relations at present existing between Germany and Russia.

Spain.

MADRID, February 22.—Emile Castellar has published an article on Skobeleff's speech. He fears a coming Slav invasion of Europe, and declares it behooves the Latin races, in the interest of civilization, to enter into a close alliance with the Germans.

France.

PARIS, February 22.—The appointments of Tissot Ambassador to London and Marquis de Noulles Ambassador to Constantinople are gazetted.

Germany.

BERLIN, February 22.—No official representation regarding Skobeleff's speech will be made at St. Petersburg.

Sergeant Mason's Plaint.

NEW YORK, February 22.—A Washington special says: Sergeant Mason complains that he has been confined in a dark, dingy, rat-infested cell since September, when he shot at Guiteau, and he is indignant at the discrimination shown in favor of the assassin.

Big Theatrical Success.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, February 22.—The production of "Youth" at Wallack's Theater on Monday night was, by all means, the greatest success of the theatrical season thus far. The hit made by the play is only to be compared to the successful production of "The World," and "Youth" affords better opportunities than "The World" to the actors, the scene painter and the stage carpenter. The two great scenes of the fight in the Khyber Pass and the departure of the troop ship are the finest bits of realism ever produced in New York, and for the first time in the history of the melodrama at Wallack's the occupants of the parquette emulated the gallery with their cheers.

BOARD OF TRADE LAW.

Important Decision to Grain Commission Men.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 22.—Judge Tuley, in the Circuit Court, has rendered a decision involving a question of Board of Trade law raised in the suit of Kennett and others against Culver and others. The firm of Kennett & Co., of Chicago, made large advances to an Iowa firm known as Evans & Coon in crib, the former afterward called on the latter on account of a sale of 260,000 bushels of corn for future delivery. The Iowa firm refused to respond, contending that under the collateral bills of sale of corn which were given with each advance made by Kennett & Co., they were not bound to furnish margins, and that Kennett & Co. were bound to advance all margins necessary in contracts for sale of corn made for future delivery. The advances were made on the usual form of bill of sale to secure advances upon corn in crib at railroad stations. This document Judge Tuley characterized as being in effect a chattel mortgage, but not good as against third parties, considered either as a chattel mortgage or a bill of sale. He held that the contract contained in the bill of sale must control as to the rights of parties without regard to the rules or regulations of the Board of Trade, and that under the contract it was plain that all the margins necessary to be advanced on any contracts of sale for future delivery should have been made by Kennett & Co., they to receive, when the sale of corn was finally closed, interest on such margins so advanced and commissions for selling.

Warfare on Bucket Shops.

CHICAGO, February 22.—The Chicago Board of Trade, following in the footsteps of the New York Produce Exchange, has inaugurated a vigorous warfare against the numerous bucket shops which abound in the neighborhood of the Chamber of Commerce, and proposes hereafter not to allow the Gold and Stock Company to furnish these open boards with the quotations. The Board of Trade quotations are the basis upon which the bucket shops do business, and without them their occupation will be gone.

The Old French Camp.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., February 22.—The Rhode Island Historical Society announces that the thirty acres of land comprising the site of the old French camp and the highest land in the City of Providence have been purchased by a committee of citizens, who refuse to allow their names to be published, to be donated to the city for use as a public park.

Chicago Gamblers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 22.—In spite of Mayor Harrison's order, issued yesterday, to the effect that all gambling-houses should be closed at once, all were running last night as usual.

A SON OF JOE SMITH.

Joseph Smith, editor of the Saints' Herald, and son of the original Joseph Smith, founder of Mormonism, arrived in the city this morning to speak at a large anti-polygamy meeting to be held to-night.

Philadelphia News.

NEW YORK, February 22.—A Philadelphia special says friends of reform claim a great victory over the gas trust candidates in yesterday's election.

Statistics show an alarming increase in malignant scarlet fever. The deaths in 1880 were 618, and last year there were 1,964. The deaths for seven weeks of this year have been 670.

$10,000 Lost in the Mail.

NEW YORK, February 22.—A package containing $10,000, mailed by the Park National Bank, of this city, to the Charleston National Bank, of Charleston, on December 22 last, has not yet reached its destination, and the Post-office detectives have not yet found it. It was placed in a pouch with twenty other valuable packages which have been accounted for.

Shot by Her Husband.

MOORHEAD, MINN., February 22.—Mrs. Tolleff Hanson was shot and killed by her husband yesterday, from whom she had procured a divorce on the grounds of cruel treatment. Hanson then made a weak attempt to kill himself, but will recover.

Mill Dam Burst.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., February 22.—The mill dam on Mahoning River at Lowellville, this county, went out early this morning; loss $20,000.

Utah and Polygamy.

Benj. Hampton, a prominent real estate man of Salt Lake City, Utah, registered at the Lindell this afternoon with his wife. He is returning from a business trip to New York, and states that he was detained for three days at Highland, Ill., on the Vandalia Line. Mr. Hampton says the Mormons are anxiously watching the agitation against them, and the controversy now going on in Congress, but they believe the general result will be beneficial to their interests, and that the two Delegates will be returned to the people for a new election. Polygamy, according to Mr. Hampton, is at a standstill, though the Salt Lake Tribune declares it is on the increase. Great interest is being manifested in the mineral development of Utah. Last year the shipments of lead and silver amounted to 10,000,000 pounds; in 1880, about 7,000,000 and 5,000,000 in 1879. The ore is alleged to be of inferior grade, but plentiful and easily mined. Mr. Hampton, as a matter of personal history, said he was raised in St. Louis and went to school at the Mound, where he had as classmates Mr. Spencer Clawson, son-in-law of Brigham Young, and Mr. Watson, purchasing agent for the Zion Co-operative Store. In 1853 young Hampton ran away from home and reached Santa Fe, where he remained for eight years, removing thence to Salt Lake. He has resided among the Mormons nearly twenty years and has grown quite opulent.

A Visit to Vaccine Farm.

An excursion to Higgins' farm where the vaccine quills are prepared for use at the City Dispensary, was made to-day. The Health Commissioner and Dr. Carson, accompanied by one of the members of the board and representatives of the newspapers, drove to the farm in carriages, a distance of thirteen miles west of the city.

TRAVEL RESUMED.

Most of the Railroads Running Trains as Usual.

Snowstorm at Points in the Northwest—The Mercury—Damage by the Flood Repaired.

Scarcely any rainfall is reported through the signal stations to-day, and it is believed that the lengthened dampness has entirely ceased. The weather is clear all over the country, with indications of warmth. At 6 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 20°, standing precisely as at the same hour yesterday morning, but at 10 o'clock the weather had moderated to 27°, or 3° higher than at the same hour yesterday. The cold snap emanated from the west and northwest, and reports from that section show a rapid change in temperature. Within the past twenty-four hours at Omaha, Neb., a change of 22° has been registered, the thermometer standing yesterday morning at 3° above zero and this morning at 25°. The wind is still traveling from the westward at a velocity of sixteen miles an hour as compared with twenty-eight miles an hour yesterday. The wind reached its highest speed at 3:50 yesterday morning, when the velocity of forty-four miles an hour was registered, and that speed was maintained until nearly daylight. The temperature of the North and Northwest has risen considerably within the past twenty-four hours, and while the signal officer says the thermometer will stand below freezing point throughout the day, yet St. Louis appears to be within the region of high barometers, and warmer weather is anticipated.

It is somewhat significant that no predictions for the Upper Mississippi Valley were made last night by the signal authorities at Washington, as they deemed the situation involved in great doubt. It will be a matter of information to the general public that St. Louis is included in the section known as the Upper Mississippi Valley, which embraces the western half of Illinois, the eastern half of Missouri, the southern portion of Wisconsin and the western sections of Kentucky and Tennessee, embracing St. Paul on the north and Memphis on the South.

RAILROAD TRAVEL NOW UNIMPEDED.

"The flood is over. Trains as usual!" Such is the cheerful placard displayed in the windows of most of the ticket agents on Fourth and Fifth streets this morning. Most of the trains out left on time this morning. Others will leave at noon, and with only one exception outgoing trains will leave on time to-night. This exception is the Louisville and Nashville, which will not be able to send out any trains until day after to-morrow. The trouble on this road is the high water in Silver Creek, near Mascoutah, Ill., and the consequent damage to the bridge over the creek at that point. The delayed through passenger trains on the Vandalia, which have been tied up at Highland, Ill., during the past forty-eight hours, will be able to move at 12 o'clock to day and will reach the city early this afternoon.

The Vandalia are still using the tracks of the Ohio and Mississippi Road from Odin, but expect to have their own main line ready for business as usual after to-morrow evening.

The Cairo Short Line has suffered no interruption of business whatever, neither has the St. Louis and Cairo, although the levee at Cairo is in a deplorable condition.

The St. Louis and San Francisco trains are all on time The wires on this line between St. Louis and Pacific are still down and it is difficult to obtain any dispatches from the lines along this road. The Missouri Pacific sent out a train this morning by a roundabout process. They use their own tracks to Pacific, there they switch off into the tracks of the St. Louis and San Francisco, over which they run as far as Springfield; there they turn into the tracks of the Fort Scott and Gulf Road and continue on that line as far as Lamar, which is on the main line of the Missouri Pacific. The run to Kansas City is then made over the Missouri Pacific tracks.

NO INCOMING TRAINS

will reach the city over the Missouri Pacific until to-morrow night, it is thought. The land-slide on the main track of the Missouri Pacific at New Haven is being rapidly removed and General Manager Talmage expects to send out trains as usual after to-morrow morning.

The Iron Mountain will send out a train at noon. The cold weather has solidified the mass of dirt which came down on the track of the Iron Mountain at Cliff Cave on Monday, so that the work of removal has been greatly simplified, and officials of the road are agreeably surprised to find that they are able to resume business at least twenty-four hours earlier than was expected. The wash-out at 17-mile post is being rapidly repaired. Incoming trains will probably be able to reach the city after this evening. The Indianapolis and St. Louis will send out its regular train at noon. The morning train, due here at 8:20 this morning, will reach the city only about four hours behind time. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy will send out a train to-night. Wires are down, and it is impossible to get exact information concerning the condition of the road, but sufficient is known to warrant the company sending out a train to-night. The Wabash will send out trains east and west to-night. The Kansas City trains will be ferried over the Missouri at St. Charles, and the bridge will not be used until a test of its strength can have been made.

The Ohio and Mississippi is O. K. The Louisville trains are on time. Cincinnati business is still interrupted on account of high water at Lawrenceburg, but the company now take passengers by steamer from Cincinnati to Aurora, a point about twenty-five miles down the river, where connections are made with the main line. This occasions a delay of only a few hours, and in a day or two at most trains will be able to be run over the entire line. The Chicago and Alton are jubilant over their ability to accommodate their patrons again. Trains are going in and coming out on time as usual.

A Forty-Eight Hours' Storm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OCONOMOWOC, WIS., February 22.—A storm of forty-eight hours' duration has just finished here. It commenced with snow, then turned to sleet, rain and hail.

At Milwaukee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., February 22.—The Wisconsin Central Road is a great sufferer by the recent snow-storm. For a distance of a hundred miles on that road the snow is 18 inches deep and in places drifted from 5 to 8 feet deep.

More Snow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA, February 22.—More snow has fallen here within the past two days than at any previous time this winter. The weather has turned bitterly cold.

Cattle Frozen to Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DUBUQUE, IOWA, February 22.—Intensely cold weather has set in in this neighborhood. A train of twenty-five cars of choice steers on the Illinois Central Road became stuck in the snow near Fort Dodge, and a dozen head of cattle were frozen to death.

At Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, February 22.—The river has fallen nearly two feet from the highest mark and is falling rapidly. The weather is clear and cold. Advices from up the river show the river still rising and it may rise again here, but the cold weather gives promise that the worst is over. There is no change in the general situation.

Snow-Storm in Minnesota.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, MINN., February 22.—A terrible snow-storm still prevails throughout the Northwest. Eight inches of snow fell here in six hours. The storm extends 200 miles west. Communication by rail or telegraph is generally interrupted.

DESTRUCTION BY THE FLOOD.

A City Submerged—Live Stock Lost—Inundated Country.

MEMPHIS, TENN., February 22.—Officials of the City of Greenville confirm the report published of the sad condition of affairs now existing throughout the Mississippi Valley. Thousands of men are on constant guard along the levees between here and Vicksburg, using every possible means to strengthen their power of resistance and elevate their crests to prevent the water from

INUNDATING THE WHOLE COUNTRY.

The Greenville brought up several thousands of empty sacks to be used by filling with earth to aid in strengthening the embankments. A batch of 2,500 was put off at Bolivar Landing, where danger of a break was imminent. Washington, Isoquena, Bolivar, Coahuma and Tunica counties, Mississippi, in fact the whole shore line between Memphis and Vicksburg, on the Mississippi side, and the whole eastern shore of Arkansas are either under water or threatened with inundation. The inhabitants of the vast area of country are in great distress. Many have been

FORCED FROM THEIR HOUSES

and are subsisting the best they may on rafts, and some on knolls or parts of old levees. The destruction of live stock is beyond calculation. The waste of property by the great submersion is outside the limits of present computation. Navigation of the river itself is regarded by steamboatmen as dangerous at its present stage on account of the great expanse of water in many localities and the billowy character of the water in places

SWEPT BY HEAVY GUSTS OF WIND;

also because of the great difficulty of getting to safe ports. Government lights along the river are maintained with admirable regularity. These lights prove of incalculable benefit to the steamboatmen, since all bank land-marks have disappeared. Arkansas City is completely submerged. Not a single house in the city is free from the presence of the muddy flood. The water there is represented as being eight inches higher than the flood of 1876. Houses were built so as to be above the flood-level of that year, but in all of them there is from seven to eight inches of water. Between Cairo and Memphis the following above the surging flood: The bluffs at Columbus, hills back of Hickman landing on the Tennessee side, opposite Island 10, New Madrid, Point Pleasant, Uptonville, Fulton Bluffs, Randolph, Richardsons, Islands 35 and 36, and Dese's Island above the head of Centennial cut-off forty miles above Memphis.

POINTS OF LAND ONLY ARE VISIBLE

Out of Employment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, February 22.—The river began receding last evening, fell gradually all night and is going down fast. This morning the cold snap, freezing the ground and cutting off small streams, checked the flood and saved all this region from terrible devastation. As it is fully here, and business is damaged in many ways. Railroad travel between here and Indianapolis is entirely cut off and greatly interrupted in many other directions. The highest point reached was fifty-eight feet seven inches. The river is rising very fast above, but the present high water will run off before this rise reaches here. Lawrenceburg, Ind., is completely cut off.

FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE ARE THROWN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT

Attempt to Bribe a Judge.

BOSTON, MASS., February 22.—A Pittsfield dispatch says that after opening the District Court this morning, Judge Tucker stated that Robert Murray, of West Stockbridge, indicted on several complaints for liquor-selling, handed him a letter this morning containing $20, and in which was written a request that he might be let off easy, as he had been compelled to pay out much lately. When Murray took the stand Judge Tucker notified him that this attempt at bribery he should put into the hands of the District Attorney, and said it was the first time in his ten years of service on the bench that any one had attempted to bribe him.

A Curious Accident.

PARSONS, KAN., February 22.—A curious accident occurred in the Missouri Pacific boiler-shops at this place, this week, by which Frank Coins, a boiler-maker, was quite seriously, and perhaps fatally, injured. He was using his hammer and striking very hard blows, when the face of the hammer flew into pieces, one piece entering his right breast, after going through his heavy overshirt and two undershirts. Surgeons have probed for the piece, but as yet have failed to discover it.

Choked by Pork.

MOOSE LAKE, MINN., February 22.—John T. Anderson, a Swede, choked to death at dinner at this place to-day. He was eating a piece of fat pork, and bit off more than he could chew. The deceased came to this country in 1853, served through the war and was a pensioner. He has daughters in good circumstances in St. Paul and Fargo, who were at once notified.

PRESENTED TO MRS. GARFIELD.

A Memorial of the Late President by Ex-Confederates.

CLEVELAND, O., February 22.—C. A. Withers, James D. Campbell, B F. Kruhe and Ferdinand Schwartz, a committee appointed by ex-Confederate soldiers resident in Cincinnati and its vicinity, arrived this morning, bringing with them a memorial tribute to James A. Garfield in the form of eulogistic and sympathetic resolutions engrossed on parchment, and framed in varicolored Tennessee marble, highly polished, and cut from a single block two feet square, with the United States coat-of-arms in Mexican onyx inlaid at each corner. The committee called on Mrs. Garfield this forenoon, selecting Washington's Birthday as an appropriate time, and formally presented the testimonial, Maj. C. A. Withers, formerly Adjutant-General of J. A. Morgan's staff, making the following address:

"It is with mingled feelings of gratification and regret that I have the honor, madam, of presenting to you this memorial of the ex-Confederate soldiers of Cincinnati. It is gratifying that we can truthfully and feelingly unite our voices in commendation of the late dead with those of the many thousands of lamenting people. The occasion which called for such sentiments is painful in its recollections, and as fully deplored by the people of the South as by those of any other section. The unanimity with which these resolutions were passed and the expressions conveyed therein speak more than any words of mine, and you can rest assured, madam, that in them is voiced the tribute of all the old soldiers of the South to the sterling worth of the late President."

Mrs. Garfield, with great effort, repressed her emotion, while the mother of the late President

WEPT VIOLENTLY.

Both ladies were clad in the deepest mourning. The late President's widow, her voice trembling with emotion, replied to the address of Gen. Withers as follows:

"Gentlemen, I am very grateful to you and to those from whom this beautiful gift comes, both for its sake and the sentiment you express."

The two mesdames Garfield then examined the memorial gift and expressed their admiration of the frame to Mr. Knipe, its maker, who said: "My heart went out in sympathy for the President. I volunteered to make that frame, and I made it so that it may remain a standing testimony of Southern sentiments."

Gen. Withers added, "And moreover, we want to show these Northern politicians that we ex-Confederate are not as black as they try to make us out."

The younger Mrs. Garfield repeated, "It had always been the General's greatest wish that there be no North or South. His earnest desire was to see a united country, and had he lived—"

Here her grief overcame her and the sentence was unfinished. After a brief silence courtesies were exchanged and the visitors withdrew, driving to Lake View Cemetery, where Garfield's casket lies in a vault.

FEDERAL BARNACLES.

How Employes Have Drawn Salaries for Doing Nothing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 22.—About four years ago an annual appropriation of $5,000 was granted the Solicitor's office of the Treasury Department, for the purpose of enabling the Solicitor to look after the tracts of land taken by the Government for debts. These lands are scattered through twenty-seven States, and include thousands of acres. A short time ago a small sum of money was needed to pay the expenses of an officer who was going to one of the Northern States to sell a piece of land. It was found that not a dollar of the fund was available. Upon investigation it appeared that the whole appropriation had been used to assist in maintaining a division for keeping the records of captured and abandoned lands. There was need for such division shortly after the war, but the business was wound up long ago. The salaries of the seven employes in that division, amounting to $11,200, are still paid, however, Five thousand dollars of the above amount has been taken from the appropriation referred to, and the remaining $6,200 from money devoted to the preservation of Confederate archives. The Solicitor of the Treasury intends laying the whole matter before Secretary Folger for the purpose of ascertaining if the money appropriated for his office shall be used in that way.

GOTHAM'S IMPROVEMENTS.

Splendid Buildings to be Erected in the Empire City.

NEW YORK, February 22.—Among the heavier real estate transactions within the past day or two are negotiations for the purchase of a Broadway corner near the Grand Opera-house, 121 feet by 283 feet, for the sum of $485,000. A wealthy syndicate intends to erect on this site a number of stores, with an extensive hall for balls, concerts, etc., at an outlay of about $1,000,000, including the cost of the ground. The Manhattan Storage and Warehouse Company have purchased the plot of ground (ten lots) southwest corner of Lexington avenue and Forty-second street for $130,000.

ELEVEN (FLAT) HOUSES, on the south side of Fifty-second street, between Lexington and Fourth avenues, have been sold for $145,000; also the six-story iron-front store, southwest corner of Broadway and Howard street, for $400,000 The old Gramercy Park Hotel has been sold, and will be turned into flats, and there is a report that a prominent Fourteenth street dry goods and fancy goods firm are negotiating for the purchase of Booth's Theater.

Depredating Indians.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 22.—Winnipeg advices state that the Blackfeet and the Sioux Indians in the northwestern territory are causing a great deal of trouble, stealing horses, killing cattle and committing other depredations. The Government Inspector was lately taken prisoner, but released by mounted police.

TRADERS KILLED.

ST. PAUL, February 22.—A special from Battleford, Northwestern Territories, says: The Blackfeet and other Indians in the vicinity of forks of the Red Deer and South Branch are committing numerous depredations, driving off and killing cattle. In the Bow River country American whisky traders were killed by them and several other Americans have been found dead in the neighborhood and are supposed to have been killed by the same Indians.

Shot and Killed.

CHICAGO, February 22.—James McNamara, yardman in the employ of the Michigan Southern Railway, was shot and killed by J. W. Evans, in the town of Lake, early this morning. Evans claims McNamara assaulted him for the purpose of robbery, but as the latter has borne a good reputation the affair is somewhat mysterious.

A "Masher" Sues for Libel.

DES MOINES, IOWA, February 22.—Suit was commenced against the Iowa State Register to-day in the Polk County Circuit Court for $10,000 damages for libel by C. H. Platt, a grain commission dealer of this city. The grievance lies in the publication of an article wherein Platt is charged with following and endeavoring to make appointments with married ladies for improper purposes, and with playing the role of a "masher" generally. The other local papers also gave publicity to the same charges, and it is rumored that further suits are in course of preparation.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

A Man of 60 Sued for $25,000 by a Girl of 19.

WABASH, IND., February 22.—During all of last week an interesting case has been in progress in the Miami Circuit Court at Peru. In 1878 the wife of Samuel K. Newman, one of the wealthiest farmers in the county, died. For several months the widower went about with crape on his hat. But one day he happened to notice that a tenant on his farm, just over the line in Cass county, had a very pretty daughter, only 19 years of age, named Lida Hazelrigg. Mr. Newman, though on the shady side of 60,

WAS NOT BLIND TO FEMALE LOVELINESS.

The result of his attentions was that the damsel last fall announced that he had by word and deed entered into a marriage engagement with her, and that he could either fulfill it or stand a suit for breach of promise. Mr. Newman stoutly maintained that he had never given her any reason to believe that he intended to marry her, and expressed a determination to stand a trial in the courts. Miss Hazelrigg in her complaint specifies several occasions on which it is alleged Newman grew affectionate. One Sunday afternoon, she states, he called at her home and together they walked down to the banks of the sinous Eel River to gather shells. While wandering about on the pebbly brink of the stream, Mr. Newman clasped her in his arms, hugged her and imprinted a burning kiss on her marble brow. Miss Hazelrigg further says that he frequently called on her and sat up very late, though she produces no evidence to show that Mr. Newman compromised himself in any manner. The defendant denies every allegation save that he sat up late at night. No letters are introduced. Miss Hazelrigg presents a very attractive exterior, being plump in figure, and possessing a handsome face, with dark hair and eyes. Her demand is $25,000. It is not possible that the suit would have been begun but for Newman's marriage with Miss Jennie Busick, a Peru milliner. This aroused Miss Hazelrigg's ire. The court-room during the trial has been filled daily with fashionable audience who strain their ears to catch every syllable of the evidence. The jury disagreed, and were discharged.

FOUND AFTER DEATH.

A Wife Discovers Her Husband, who had Eloped with Her Cousin.

NEW YORK, February 22.—Last Thursday a man named James Johnson died in Hoboken of small-pox. A lady who was believed to be his wife—a very fine-looking woman—urged the authorities to take him away from the house, and when they refused she left the house and has not been seen since. The sick man hired a nurse and staid in his own house until he died. The body was buried on Friday last in the Weehawken Cemetery. This morning a richly-dressed woman called at police headquarters and said that the dead man was her husband. She wanted permission to disinter his body and take it to his former home in Dayton, O. In answer to inquiries, she said that she was Johnson's wife, and that seven years ago and eloped with her cousin, Pauline Kreger, taking a large sum of money belonging to the lawful wife. She added that she had spent several thousand dollars trying to track the guilty pair, and knew nothing of their whereabouts until she saw a notice of Johnson's death in a paper at Dayton, O. The lady was informed that the police had no power to interfere in the matter, and that if she wished to have the body of her husband she must apply to the health authorities. This the lady did, and was chagrined to learn that the body could not be taken up at present, as its transportation might tend to spread the dread contagion. She then left the city very suddenly. The police and health authorities are puzzled to account for the singular disappearance of the woman with whom the deceased had been living, and are inclined to place all credence in the Ohio woman's story.

HE DESERTED HER

Will be Hanged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., February 22.—Major Hicks, a negro, will certainly be hanged at Covington this Friday, all efforts for a respite having failed.

ABOUT TOWN.

THE Second District Police Court is closed to-day.

THERE has not been an arrest made since midnight in that part of the city north of Washington avenue, which takes in the Third, Fourth and Fifth Police Districts.

THIS evening there will be a camp-fire of Frank P. Blair Post, No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, at the hall, Ninth and Market streets. There will be music in attendance and a pleasant time generally.

AT a meeting of the Esmeralda Social Club Monday evening the members voted to change the name by dropping the word "Social." Henceforth the club will be known as the Esmeralda Club. There was no change whatever in the membership.

THE eighth annual ball of the Modoc Rowing Club will take place at Liederkranz Hall next Tuesday evening, February 26. The various committees have been actively employed in efforts to make the occasion pleasant, and yesterday issued cards of invitation.

THE Confederates of this city, failing to find in the organization of Confederates effected last year at Moberly that activity which was desired, have formed themselves into a society called "The Southern Benevolent and Historical Association." The design is to render aid to the suffering families and survivors of the late war. The association has elected the following officers: John S. Mellon, president; Chas. P. Ellerbe, secretary; Judge Valliant, vice-president; C. C. Rainwater, A. W. Slayback, Waldo P. Johnson, Elijah Gates and James Bannerman, directors. A charter will be duly applied for.

NORTH ST. LOUIS ITEMS.

Capt. Quinn Slocum succeeds Mr. John W. Parker as raft superintendent for the Knapp, Stout & Co Company. Capt. Slocum's appointment takes effect March 1st.

While at work removing lumber in the Eau Claire Company's yard at the foot of Salisbury street, yesterday evening, Wm. Brincker fell from a pile and broke his right leg and injured himself about the body.

The children of the German Lutheran Church, Thirteenth and Salisbury streets, will have a social concert in the school house this evening. After the concert there will be a supper expressly for the children.

A new organ costing $1,500 has just been received from New York, and placed in the Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Eleventh and Mallinckrodt streets. Services of the stations of the cross will be celebrated at this church every Friday evening during Lent, by Rev. Father Fred. Brinckhoff.

CURB NOTES.

Washington's Birthday Well Observed by the Operators.

Morgan's Trip—A "Corner" in Insurance—Items of Interest.

With the closing of the Merchants' Exchange in observance of Washington's birthday, speculative traders were thrown out of employment for the day, and as there were no church services for them to attend and the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. closed, they had no place to go this forenoon. Naturally the footsteps of a good many tended toward the Exchange building, and by 11 o'clock there was quite an assemblage of the shining lights of the "bear pit" gathered in the lower halls. Sprinkled around in the crowd were a few "bucket shop" scalpers, tailers and country customers, who stood around drinking in the words of wisdom and "pointers" that fell from the lips of the heavy weights. The absence of any "curb" telegrams from Chicago, Toledo and other important speculative centers held the crowd down to mere talk, and there was no attempt to speak of made to trade. Bowman offered June wheat ¾c lower, at $1 19¼, generously adding that if any one wished to be accommodated very badly, he could "have ten or twenty-five at $1 19¼," but no one seemed to banker after the stuff till Sid. Francis dropped in Sid. said he held an order for June at $1 19, but about this time Bowman had changed his mind and the difference of a quarter cent that split them continued to keep them apart. Some May wheat was offered at $1 25¾, which was considerably lower, but it went begging, no one seemingly having the nerve to tackle on. The feeling so far as could be seen was weak, but this was probably due chiefly to the fact that most of the crowd were "bears" and wouldn't buy under any consideration. Corn was not even mentioned, but was not certainly lower to sell. The crowd gradually dispersed as time passed and nothing turned up to attract their attention and hold them, and by noon the building was deserted.

MORGANS PEDESTRIAN FEAT.

John F. Morgan put in an appearance this morning, looking hungry and travel-worn, but in good health and spirits, after his prolonged trip from Chicago. Several St. Louis operators, who went to that city last Saturday, were caught on their return by the floods and compelled to lay up at Springfield, Ill., on account of the cessation of railway travel. R. S. McCormick, B. F. Baldwin, Morgan and several others were among the unfortunates who were forced to lay over. They were unable to get away by train, but Morgan got tired of laying around that town, and last night, bidding his friends good-by, he boldly started to tramp to St. Louis, arriving at the east end of the bridge at daybreak this morning. Mr. Morgan says that walking on the tracks was comparatively safe, though he had to swim all culverts he came to, but the ties were rough on corns and he suffered greatly from a lack of spirits—not liquid, of course. He took observations of the growing wheat crop as he passed and pronounces all he saw as looking fine, not at all injured by the water that covered it. This was the only statement of his—and he related many startling incidents of his escapes from flood and fire (water)—that met with any discredit from his hearers, as they could not understand how he could examine the wheat while it was covered with water, unless he is an expert diver.

AN INSURANCE "CORNER."

A report has been circulated on the floor that the February wheat clique had elevator insurance "cornered," having taken out insurance upon all the elevators in this market to the fullest extent allowed by the underwriters. This can hardly be the case with an elevator on the East side, and one, too, in which most of the wheat is going that arrives from Toledo and points in Indiana, as a party who knows states positively that the February "shorts" hold all the insurance on that particular elevator, and the clique is obliged to move the wheat out of that elevator as fast as possible after it is delivered them, owing to their inability to get it insured. In this case the "shorts" have the "longs" cornered.

NOTES.

A telegram was received late yesterday from Chicago that stated McGeogh had settled up over two million bushels long wheat he was holding. It is thought the Chicago clique are trying to get out of their long wheat.

A "prominent short" remarked to-day that the break in the railways from the floods was a great help to the February clique, as it kept them from paying for over 50,000 bushels wheat that will not get in in time to deliver on this month's contracts.

The Cotton Exchange was open from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. to-day for the accommodation of such shippers as wished to get their cotton notes from Secretary Simmons. The attendance was small and the members laid around in an indifferent mood, as there was no business to transact and no chalk marks on the blackboard to attract their attention. Most of them passed away the time in swapping yarns and in frequent trips to Main and Market streets.

The combination that is supposed to be running a deal in April wheat in Chicago is said to be composed of McGeogh & Everingham, Kent & Fairbank. They hold all the way from 10,000,000 to 18,000,000 bushels long wheat, so it is said, having bought it at a round $1 25, as they did not expect it to go below $1 22, but they bought largely on the heavy break that followed. It is expected that the country will as usual rush to buy on the sharp advance, and the clique will take advantage of this to unload a great deal of their wheat.

How an Artist Treated His Visitor.

To the Editor of the Salem (Mass.) Register:

I would have accepted your kind invitation to visit you in your new quarters with pleasure before this, had not my old enemy, Mr. Rheumatism, pounced on me so suddenly. He arrived last Friday, and, without stopping to send up his card, rushed in and grasped me by the hand with such a grip that within a few hours my hand and wrist were so badly swollen and painful that I felt as though one of Mr. Hatch's coal teams had run over me. Mr. Rheumatism has been a constant visitor of mine for several years; always swells and puts on a great many airs and always makes himself at home, devouring my substance and leaving me poor in flesh and pocket. Last Winter he came and stayed two months. I then made up my mind that the next time he came I would change his diet, as he always gobbled down everything set before him I was somewhat at a loss what to feed him with, but finally concluded to give him three square meals a day of St. Jacobs Oil—morning, noon, and night. This fare he is disgusted with, and is packing up his trunk and will leave by to-morrow or next day; says he cannot stop any longer as he has pressing business elsewhere. He is a treacherous fellow, and I have no doubt he intends visiting some of our Salem friends; if he does just give him the same fare that I did and he won't stop long.

CITY PERSONALS.

Gov. John C. Brown and family will return this evening from New York City.

Orange Blossoms.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock there will be a quiet home wedding, including the relatives and intimate friends only. Miss Lizzie Ettman, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ettman, will be married to Mr. Isidor Schnitzer, of Helena, Ark., merchant and general commission business. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. Messing, of the Jewish Temple, corner of Twentieth and Olive streets. The bridal party will remain at the Southern until the 1st of March, when they will go to Memphis for a few days before going to Helena, their future home. There will be no bridesmaids, but three little flower girls will serve as attendants, Misses Jennie Ettman, Tillie Block, and Carrie Jacques. The bride's dress is of royal purple satin surah, made with box-pleated flounce around the bottom, with three shirred satin ruffles above it, princess overdress, made with paniers bouffant and trimmed with iridescent and gold passementerie, long close-fitting sleeves finished with puffs; corsage V, with garniture of duchesse lace. The bridal veil will be confined to the hair with a coronet of orange blossoms, with ear-rings, and brooch of the flowers. Bouquet du corsage at left side.

Miss Jennie Ettman's, dress will be of garnet silk, combined with old gold and Roman brocade silk; garniture of white lace.

Miss Tillie Block will wear garnet silk trimmed with passementerie of iridescent beads.

Miss Carrie Jacques, light blue striped silk, trimmed with ruffles and pleatings of the same; basque corsage of blue brocaded silk.

A repast will be served in courses.

BRIGHT OF HARRISBURG.

The Way he Wanted to Buy Two Cigars for a Nickel.

"I want two cigars for a nickel, my friend," said a countrified-looking man, as he leaned up against the news stand in the gents' waiting-room at Union Depot last evening. "We don't keep any two-for-a-nickel cigars, my friend," replied the waiter in a determined tone. The bad-looking country gent retired to a seat to think. He was in contact with the bench but a few seconds when a new idea struck him.

Drawing a rusty revolver from his pocket he started up towards the counter and carelessly pointing the weapon at the man said: "My friend, I say I want two cigars for a nickel." The man was about to hand over the cigars, under the circumstances, when Officer McKernan violently laid the hands of the law on the back of the bad man, who looked as if his nervous center had been shattered. Shaking like a leaf, the desperado was taken to the Four Courts, where he was searched.

"What's your name?" asked Officer Horstman.

"Bright, of Harrisburg—darn my infernal brother —"

"What's your first name?"

"Newton Bright—d——n my infernal brother—"

"Where are you from?"

"Harrisburg, Ill.—goldarn my infernal brother—"

"Now, don't mind that infernal brother of yours. Stand up and be searched."

Bright was searched and materials for a good-sized arsenal were found on him, with pen, ink and paper.

"What did you carry brass knuckles and a revolver for?"

"Well now, friend, there's no use arguing, a d——n fool is a d——n fool, but darn my infernal brother" said the man, with tears flowing down his face, "if he hadn't put this revolver in my pocket I'd never got in this trouble." When the searching was completed, Newton extended his hand to Officer McKernan saying, "I'll never see you again." The officer assured Newton that they would meet again and locked him up to answer a charge carrying concealed weapons in the Police Court.

C. F. Mathey, Esq.,

Of Mermod, Jaccard & Co., of Fourth and Locust streets, will leave in a few days for Europe and will be pleased to execute any special commissions that may be intrusted to his care for the purchase of fine diamonds, other precious stones, real bronzes, fine clocks, choice potteries, etc. He will be pleased to confer with any one interested.

BELLEVILLE.

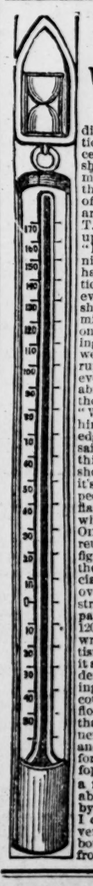

M. J. Gannon, stage driver between here and Hecker, came near losing his life in crossing West Fork Creek, but by his presence of mind both Gannon, team and mail arrived in Belleville in a moist condition.

The Circuit Court organized yesterday. The grand jury was sworn in; Joseph Vulle of Millstadt was chosen chairman. The actual session will commence Thursday. Court was not held to-day on account of the observance of Washington's Birthday.

Mr. Spitznass, one of the grand jurors, created quite a sensation yesterday by refusing to take the oath. He was ordered to be placed under arrest for contempt of court. He concluded to take the oath, and is now a qualified but discontented juror. Wm. Denlinger and J. W. Smith are clerks of the jury.

THE COUNTRYMAN IN THE Weather Signal Office.

Mr. Jeremiah Toadvine, of the rural district, brought a letter of introduction to the United States Signal Officer, and by the latter gentleman was shown the beautiful scientific instruments for measuring and determining the various changes and conditions of the weather. Pointing to the standard thermometer he explained to Mr. T. the uses of the heat gauge, whereupon Mr. T. anxiously inquired if he "hadn't nuther un to spare—sich a nice merchine to sot the weather in hayin' and harvest time." His inspection of the aerometer or wind measurer evoked the expression: "Wouldn't she be the racket to run the wind mill with." The barometer was one too many for Toadvine, and, looking queerly at the official, as if he were utterly nonplussed and bankrupt of words, said: "Friend, did you ever have the reumatis?" The abruptness of the question surprised the officer, who replied, "No—never." "What"—— Evidently recollecting himself, Mr. T. stopped on the ragged edge of the threadbare remark, and said: "I only wanted to know, for if this trap (pointing to the barometer) shows the good an' bad weather afore it's time, it would be a bully trap for people with reumatis; they could flank it every time. Up my country when folks has it they use ST. JACOBS OIL, an' it's a powerful argyment agin reumatis—it's the upper dorg in the fight every time." With thanks for the unexpected information, the official politely turned Mr. Toadvine over to the usher to show him to the street car, while he, looking over his paper, read: "Mrs. T. A. Gist, No. 1254 Walnut street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: I had inflammatory rheumatism very badly. In one foot and ankle it seemed to have taken hold with the determination to stay, and the morning I obtained the ST. JACOBS OIL I could not put my foot down to the floor, even for an instant. I used it that evening for the first time, and the next morning for the second time, and that afternoon put my foot down for several minutes. On the Sunday following I could stand up and walk a few steps. On Tuesday could walk about my room and went down stairs by holding on to the banisters. Now I can walk quite well and there is very little pain left. Just think! one bottle and a half, and I am almost free from pain! It is a wonderful medicine.

UPON MY WORD, SHE DID!

Her hair was black. "But black," she sighed,
"Is very much too cold;"
And so she bleached her locks until
They looked almost like gold.
A simple satin robe she wore
Which closely to her clung
(In fact, it was extremely scant),
And from her belt a lily pale
And four sunflowers hung—
Four big sunflowers hung.

She would not touch a bit of meat,
But oft she'd sit and weep,
To think the broiled chops were once
Part of a baby sheep.
"And oh!" she'd moan, "these seared steaks,
So full of gravy now"
(This was a slight mistake, I think),
"Once wandered o'er the fields and meads
Attached to a cow—
A gentle browsing cow."

She was the most poetic thing—
She wouldn't harm a fly;
"Its life is short at best," she'd say,
"Oh, pray, don't make it die!"
The very cat, for catching mice,
In tearful voice she chid.
And then at last she married
(And seemed quite glad to get him, too)
A butcher—yes, she did—
Upon my word, she did!

UNION GENERALE.

How the Bubble Company was Started—Incidents in its Career.

From the London Times.

Now that the Union Generale is about to disappear from the scene it will be of interest to trace again in a few lines the history of what will have to be ranked among the great bubble companies. It was founded in 1878, with a capital of 25,000,000f., by a number of amateur financiers, comprising among them several well known names belonging to the French aristocracy, and was pooh-poohed at the time as the Catholic bank. Its beginnings were insignificant, but a few months after its creation M. Bontoux, an engineer who had been employed in the construction of railways in Austria, was appointed director, and from that time forward the company began to show itself ambitious. At the beginning of 1879 it doubled its capital; 50,000 new shares were issued at a premium of 20f., out of which a reserve of 1,000,000f. was formed. This was the first of the series of issues at premiums on which the company was henceforth to live, for it had no discount business of any importance. The capital now amounted to 50,000,000f., of which 12,500,000f. were paid up.

In November, 1880, the capital was again doubled, 100,000 shares being issued at a premium of 175f., which swelled the reserve to 17,500,000f. Last November the shareholders authorized a fresh issue of 100,000 shares at a premium of 350f. The date of this issue, however, has not arrived, and it, of course, falls through. At the meeting at which this issue was authorized the shareholders were likewise informed that no dividend would be paid, but that the shares would henceforth be deemed fully paid. The profits of the year were stated to exceed 36,000,000f., and the surpluses from previous years to amount to 25,500,000f., forming a total of 61,500,000f. The 350f. premium on the new shares to be issued would have brought up the sum to 97,000,000f.

Now, it was out of this sum of 97,000,000f., in part only existing on paper as yet, that the directors took the 750,000,000f. necessary for rendering the shares fully paid—a measure which was of doubtful legality, seeing that only 62,500,000f. so far really existed. The new shares, however, were sold largely in anticipation of the issue by the Union Generale itself, and the failure of this company will probably save many a purchaser of them from severe losses. M. Bontoux brought with him his Austrian connections, and it was thenceforth chiefly with Austria that the Union Generale concerned itself. It had hitherto participated in the launching of unimportant home and foreign enterprises. In 1880 it began creations on its own account. The first of the series was the Austrian Landerbank, which, in turn with the co-operation of the Union Generale and the Vienna Bankverein, created the Hungarian Landerbank. Other similar concerns in Styria and Bohemia followed, all issued at substantial premiums, which were almost the only source for payment of interest on the deposits and capital. These deposits rose up as rapidly as the capital. At the end of 1878 they amounted to some 8,000,000f.; on the 31st of December, 1879, to 35,500,000f.; on the 31st of December, 1880, to 71,000,000f.; and on the 31st of December, 1881, they exceeded 100,000,000f.—a not insignificant sum to pay interest upon. At the last general meeting in November, M. Bontoux declared the company had kept aloof from all action on the market, and that the profits were as above stated. If it only began to buy its own shares in the market after that it has not taken long to use up all its resources.

The Chinese Students at Home.

From the New York Times.

A letter just received by a gentleman in Hartford from a friend in China tells what the students lately recalled from this country are doing. Fifty-one have been distributed as follows: Twenty to the telegraph office, eight to the medical school, ten to the torpedo school, seven to the mining school, four to the Customs Department, and two to the Government docks. The rest, about forty in number, are at the naval school in Tientsin. A letter from one of the students indicates that the official wrath has been somewhat appeased by the discovery that the boys have not forsworn their country and have attained real proficiency in many important branches. This young man writes cheerfully about his surroundings and prospects, but frankly admits that he misses the girls more than anything else. He adds: "When I was in Shanghai I went to Sunday evening service with my hostess' daughter, who is a very pretty sweet sixteen, arm in arm, and you ought to see the people stare at us. They would stop in the middle of the street and look at us, as if we were so many living curiosities. I suppose they never saw such a breach of the social etiquette before. I had the queerest kind of a Christmas present. What do you suppose it was? I doubt if you can guess it, so I'll tell you. It was a promotion, in the shape of a crystal button, to the fifth rank. How is that for high? There are nine ranks in all, so you see I am half way up the ladder. Of course I don't care any about it myself, but I suppose the folks at home will think everything of it, as getting the crystal button at 18 is not an everyday affair. We are going to celebrate Christmas night with a big supper, so that we are not going to let it pass in this land without something of a recognition."

A COUGH, cold or sore throat should not be neglected. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are a simple remedy, and will generally give immediate relief.

Tea Table Gossip.

Gen. Grant told a very good story of Mr. Lincoln at the Lincoln Club dinner in New York the other evening, but here is a better one, related by W. A. Crofut in the Pioneer Press:

It was just after Mr. Lincoln was nominated in 1860 that a prominent Mason called on him at Springfield and said: "Of course you expect all the Masons to vote against you, Mr. Lincoln." "No; why?" "Because all the other Presidential candidates are Masons." "Bless me!" exclaimed old Abe, "is that so?" "Certainly," said the visitor; "Bell has taken all the degrees, and is a member of the Grand Lodge of Tennessee. Breckinridge is an officer of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky. And Douglas—why, he is grand orator of the Grand Lodge of Illinois, right here under your nose!" Mr. Lincoln turned round in his chair, without turning his chair, laid his legs across the top of the other table, laughed, rubbed his face, stuck his fingers through his hair, and said: "John, you have been down in Egypt a good deal yourself?" "Well, yes," admitted the visitor, "sorry to say I have frequented that locality." "I am reminded," said Mr. Lincoln, "of an incident that occurred in the old Shawneetown Court-house. An old woman who was a real hard case was a witness, and the lawyer, bound to get even, asked her: 'Are you a virtuous woman, madam?' She was slightly surprised, and said: 'That, sir, is a very hard question to ask a lady who is a witness before a public court.' He rose and repeated the question sternly. She still evaded it; but when he persisted she finally answered: 'This much I will say—that I have great respect for the institution!'"

The Woman's Journal cites the Misses Kollock as four typical Western girls:

The family of W. E. and A. M. Kollock, of Madison, Wis., consists of seven members, four of whom are sisters. Of these Dr. Mary Kollock Bennett, the eldest, graduated at the Woman's Medical College of Chicago, and for many years has been practicing successfully in that city. The next, Dr. Harriett Kollock, graduated in the medical department at Ann Arbor, Mich., nine years ago, since which time she has been eminently successful in her professional work. The third, the Rev. Florence Kollock, graduated at Canton Theological College some years since, and is now doing a good work as pastor in a beautiful church, built for her by her parish during the past two years at Englewood, a fine suburban town of Chicago. Dr. Jennie C. Kollock, the youngest sister, graduated in the dental department of Ann Arbor, Mich., last March, together with a class of thirty-six gentlemen, she being the only lady, and passing the highest examination of any in the class. She is now establishing herself successfully as a dental practitioner in Chicago.

We read in the papers—but can scarcely believe what we read this time—that the marriage of Clara Louise Kellogg to the Philadelphia broker who became engaged to her during her last voyage across the ocean has been postponed for some four or five weeks beyond the date in March which had been assigned for the event. The reason for the delay is that Miss Kellogg desires to somewhat extend her profitable concert tour now in progress. She will sing for two or three weeks in the East, and will then go on the Western circuit again. Can it be possible Clara Louise loves the root of all evil better than she does a husband?

Lord Folkestone, M.P., garnished a speech he recently delivered to his constituents by the following doggerel on a reported saying of Mrs. Gladstone that she "heard Mr. Gladstone singing in his bath:"

What harm can come upon the land,
What dread disaster block our path,
What trait'rous cause can hope to stand
While William warbles in his bath?

Land leaguers may sedition sow,
And pay their rent in leaden hail;
The Greeks may contumacious grow,
And rashly may the Turks assail;
The Afghans may fresh troubles breed,
Cape news be one sad tale of blotches;
Let all be calm! we must succeed,
For William warbles while he washes.

"Tickled to Death."

This is said of those who, contrary to the advice and earnest admonition of every sewing machine canvasser in St. Louis, bought the $45 "Stewart-Singer" for $21 when, during the boom of April, 1881, upwards of 500 of them were sold by Jno. L. Stanage, 114 North Sixth street, and during four years upwards of 26,000 have been sold from his office. The tide is turned in favor of the "Stewart-Singer," because it leads all others with improvements—the latest being an automatic tension. But æsthetics buy the White, because it is fashionable among those who can afford a genuine luxury. General office 114 N. Sixth street.

A Girl of Fifteen Twice Married Within Two Years.

From the Somerset (Md.) Herald.

The marriage of Miss Ella Shores to Mr. Howard E. White of Dames Quarter District, Somerset County, on the 5th inst. deserves more than a passing notice. Doubtless many of our readers remember Miss Shores as the thirteen-year-old bride of Sidney Shores; if they do not, we will refresh their memories. On the 5th of February, 1880, the Rev. Z. Bowen united the last-named parties in marriage; on the 9th of the same month Shores was arrested at his home in Dames Quarter, and Rev. Bowen was arrested in Mount Vernon, and taken before Justice A. C. Robinson, of Princess Anne, and committed to jail in default of bail. Miss Shores was thirteen years of age, and the step-daughter of Sidney Shores, who was between thirty-five and forty years old. In the first place the said Sidney had married his uncle's widow, and she had not been dead more than two months when he induced his wife's daughter by her first husband to marry him. The child was too young to know any better, and no blame was attached to her. In this State a penalty of $500 is imposed upon a man for taking to wife a step-daughter, and the minister, upon a conviction, is fined $1,500 for performing the ceremony.

Both Shores and Bowen were indicted at the April term of court, 1880. Both trials took place during the same term. Shores was convicted, and a fine of $500 was imposed upon him, he to stand committed until fine and costs were paid. The convict was a poor man, and if the terms of sentence were to be carried out, it looked as though the groom would pass the remainder of his days in jail. Fortune favored him, however, and he escaped from jail on the 20th of May, 1880, and we have not heard from him since. Mr. Bowen was tried by jury, and acquitted on the ground that he did not know the girl or the affinity existing between her and Shores. The whole affair created quite a talk at the time, and the city papers had a long and inaccurate account of it.

The marriage of Sidney and Ella was set aside or annulled by the the court. The respective ages of Howard E. White and Ella, his wife, are nineteen and fifteen years. So it will be seen that on the same day of the same month, two years after her first marriage, the said Ella was for the second time united in the holy bonds of matrimony; and that her last husband is about half as old as the first one. May they live long and prosper.

How to Discover Sewer Gas.

From the New York Evening Post.

I purchased several ounces of essence of peppermint. Late in the evening I went to the fourth story, turned on the water from the hot-water faucet for several minutes, and then, allowing the flow of hot water to continue, poured the essence in the outlet from the basin. Returning to my library, I inquired from my wife if she noticed any peculiar smell in the house. She said "No." I requested her to go to the kitchen and ask the same question. She did so and immediately one of the servants exclaimed, "Why, I was just telling Ellen that there was a smell of peppermint candy in the kitchen." The next day, with my plumber, repeating the experiment, and tearing up the cellar bottom, we found a crack in the soil-pipe. I understand the Health Department of this city have within a year or two adopted this mode for detection of sewer gas.

A SMALL WAR IN THE WEST.

Citizens of Rival Towns Fighting Over the Seat of a Dakota County.

From the Cincinnati Gazette.

The situation in Grant county, Dakota, is decidedly warlike over the fight between Millbank and Big Stone City for the county-seat. Three hundred Millbankers went to Big Stone City, the former county-seat, and voted to remove it. Having been pronounced in favor of Millbank, they took by force the records of the County Treasurer and the District Court. The Big Stoners rallied and saved the Sheriff's office and the safes containing the records of the County Clerk and Register, which they still hold by force. There are now fully 300 armed men at Big Stone, who threaten to shoot any one attempting to remove the safes. They have regular pickets stationed in and around the town day and night, intercepting every traveler coming from Millbank. Recruits have been secured from all around the county, and it is reported that they have a cannon from Brown's Valley.

One hundred bales of hay have been made into a barricade, from which the old County Clerk's Office can be easily covered with rifles. The Probate Judge, accompanied by a Deputy Sheriff, visited Big Stone and demanded the probate records. They were defiantly refused by armed men standing on guard at the door. Several Indians have been obtained from Coleaux, armed with guns and enlisted by the Big Stone people. New records and seals have been ordered by the County Commissioners, and the county business is being transacted at Millbank. The Millbankers are eager to get possession of the rest of the records, and a skirmish is among the possibilities.

An Odd Accident.

From the West Chester Record.

William H. Fitzsimmons, of West Chester, who met with such a singular accident to his voice last week by striking his thumb against the larynx while in the act of rubbing his neck with his hand just after singing a solo at the West Chester State Normal School, is slowly recovering, but is still unable to use his voice in conversation, and communicates altogether by signs and writing. He states that his thumb only struck the larynx in a slight manner, but as it did so it sent a sting through his throat like that of a bee, and from that instant he lost his voice and has been unable yet to recover it. His physician has strictly warned him against making any attempt to speak for several weeks yet to come, when he expects that the organs that are now inflamed and swollen will again return to their natural condition, and he will thoroughly recover. The danger most feared from an effort to speak is that it will cause an uneven growth of the glands of the throat and thereby produce a screechy voice that would forever cling to him. Mr. Fitzsimmons' friends are very anxious to see him perfectly recover, as he has heretofore possessed one of the finest baritone voices to be found in this section, and had cultivated it to a high degree.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—By virtue and authority of two executions issued from the office of the Clerk of the Criminal Court of the City of St. Louis, returnable to the January term, 1882, of said court, and to me directed, in favor of the State of Missouri and against Henry C. Bagot,

I have levied upon and seized all the right, title and interest of the defendant in and to the following described real estate, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, and described as follows, to-wit:

First. A tract containing 26 92-100 (twenty-six and ninety-two hundredths) acres together with improvements thereon in United States survey No. 2976 (twenty-nine hundred and seventy-six) and bounded on the west by Goodfellow avenue, south by land conveyed by said Burd and wife to Elizabeth M. Rucker, May 1, 1860, of record in book 245, page 256, of the then Recorder's office of the county of St. Louis, Missouri, east by land formerly of John Goodfellow and north by land of the estate of Charles Semple and the tract next herein described.

Second. A tract of 2 26-100 (two and twenty-six hundredths) acres in United States Survey No. 1913 (nineteen hundred and thirteen) and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a point in the north line of said survey No. 2976 where the eastern line of Goodfellow intersects with said north line of survey 2976, thence north 15° (fifteen degrees) 45 (forty-five) E. with the east line of said avenue 4 (four) chains and 20 (twenty) links to the school house lot, thence eastwardly 60° (sixty) degrees 15 (fifteen) E. parallel to said north line of said survey 2976, 6 (six) chains and 17 (seventeen) links to a roadway 50 (fifty) links wide, thence south 29° (twenty-nine) degrees 15 (fifteen) W. with said roadway 4 (four) chains 8 (eight) links to said north line of said survey 2976, thence with said north line of said survey 2976 4 (four) chains and 73 (seventy-three) links to the place of beginning.

And I will, on SATURDAY, THE 18TH DAY OF MARCH, 1882
between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, sell, at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest, claim, estate and property of the above named Henry C. Bagot, of, in and to the above described property, to satisfy said execution and costs.

THE condition of Mr. THOS. ALLEN is still precarious. Private advices received in this city are even worse than the report of our special correspondent in Washington.

JUDGE LAUGHLIN'S reversal of the Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court and the Constitution of the State does not seem to meet the unanimous approval of the bar of St. Louis.

IF the KRING case produces any ill-feeling between the Supreme Court of the United States and HENRY D. LAUGHLIN, which Heaven forefend, the latter gentleman will feel called upon to exercise his veto prerogative.

"IN the year '50," sighs the Cincinnati Volksblatt, "hogs still gamboled in the streets of Cincinnati." "And now," retorts the Times-Star, "they gamble upstairs around mahogany tables and on Brussels carpets, where not even a policeman comes to spoil their little game."

THE present grand jury, in deference to the prejudices of the Legislature of this State, admit that they will bring in a few indictments against the gamblers. At the same time, they desire the people of the city to understand that they do this with sorrow and regret. No doubt MR. PATE will receive their apologies with dignified forbearance.

INDEPENDENCE is in the air everywhere. St. Louis is not the only city where ring rule has been overwhelmingly routed. In the municipal election held at Philadelphia yesterday Mr. MCMANES, the Republican boss of the town was made the object of just such a political cataclysm as occurred here last April, when the cabbage ward ticket was submitted to the people. The Gas Trust ring in Philadelphia has gone to join HENRY OVERSTOLZ and the St. Louis gas compromise.

NEW pension claims are being filed at the rate of 2,710 a month and there are now pending 366,363 demands. The Government has already paid $506,000,000, and it is estimated that this sum will reach the enormous total of $1,850,000,000 by the year 1906, at which time the great majority of the present pensions will have lapsed. No one has attempted to figure up the millions of perjuries with which these dollars are accompanied. The Congressman who put this infamous bill through for the sake of obtaining a few votes should be pilloried.

SUPPOSING Judge LAUGHLIN has no jurisdiction because he holds himself illegally elected, has that ruling no force on account of the want of jurisdiction of the Judge giving it, and does his tenure of the criminal bench become good and thorough on account of the invalidity of the adverse opinion? And, having settled his right to jurisdiction by this chain, can he then unseat himself by the exercise of the power acquired in this way? Answers to this conundrum should be addressed to the City Insane Asylum.

HENRY BALZER, an employe at the CARNEGIE BROS'. rolling mill at Pittsburg, is the first victim to a new class of accidents which must every day become more common. He was killed by a discharge of electricity from an electric light machine upon one of the wires of which he had accidentally put his hand. There is just such danger always present in a hundred houses in St. Louis, and it will need a sharp lesson of this kind in our midst to impress the peril upon the people. Electricity has been so long a child that we have forgotten that it needs only opportunity to be a demon.

THE SPRAGUE divorce case, from which the scandal-mongers hoped for so many gamy particulars, has been quietly settled at Providence to the thorough satisfaction of the parties to the suit and the decent part of the community. The divorce is practically granted to the lady and the differences arranged without any washing of dirty linen in public, and GOV. SPRAGUE has exhibited good sense and good judgment. The people have had too much scandal, and any movement in the direction of decency will be just as generally approved as the BEECHER trial was and the CHRISTIANCY case is deplored by every right-thinking man.

JUDGE LAUGHLIN has reversed pretty nearly every superior court in range, only to meet the same fate at the hands of Judge NORMILE, who solemnly reverses him in a learned interview published this morning. The latter Judge holds that while LAUGHLIN is wrong in his conclusions, faulty in his theory and at sea in his practice, he has no jurisdiction over any criminal case growing out of a crime committed in this city, because a crime cannot be committed in a city, according to the statute, but must occur in a county. Judge NORMILE will probably issue a writ of quo warranto against Judge LAUGHLIN this week.

MR. FITZ JOHN PORTER is a good deal like the MCGARRAHAN claim. He is again endeavoring to have his case reopened and retried. Had he received his deserts he would have been shot for the gross disobedience which lost the second battle of Bull Run. He was simply punished by dismissal from the service, and as a result of this foolish clemency he is now masquerading before the country as a martyr. His case is a monument to the success of begging. By the sheer force of persistence he has kept himself before the public for twenty years, and the chances are good that he will be just as plaintively demanding tardy justice twenty years from now. He has become one of the institutions of the national capital and his wrongs will be hawked before Congress till the end of the chapter.

THE following important order has just been issued by the Mayor to the Chief of Police:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, February 21, 1882.

To the Chief of Police:

SIR—You will instruct the Captains and Lieutenants in command of police to see that all gambling-houses in their respective precincts be closed forthwith. You will also instruct that all confidence men, monte men and other known thieves found in the city be immediately arrested and prosecuted under the vagrancy act. I have reason to believe that there are many such characters now in the city plying their nefarious calling on incoming and outgoing trains. You will also see that sections 1,708 and 1,713 of the Municipal Code, requiring pawnbrokers to enter on their books an accurate description of property received by them, and to forward the same to police headquarters each day, are strictly enforced.

This order was issued yesterday by the Mayor of Chicago, where gambling is not a felony under the laws of Illinois. In this city the Mayor and President of the Police Board, instead of issuing an order like the above, publicly and repeatedly invite gambling by practically declaring that they will not close the dens under any circumstances—will not molest them—will do nothing except, perhaps, to see that the houses already established have no competition by newcomers, who alone are raided. Then, when the cases come before the Criminal Court, Judge LAUGHLIN will not try the gamblers, but the Legislature for passing the law. And this is law and justice in St. Louis.

THE MAN OF THE DAY.

Let us briefly examine, in the "dry light" of truth and common sense, the man who was born just one hundred and fifty years ago today.

Singularly enough, we actually know less of this man—that is, of his inner life and nature—than we do of any of the great men who have figured on the stage of human affairs during the last five centuries; less than we do of THEMISTOCLES and PERICLES, SYLLA and CÆSAR. He has had no PLUTARCH or SUETONIUS; nothing remotely resembling a BOSWELL. His biographers, from WEEMS to IRVING, have given us little or no inside information. The former, indeed, furnished the fearfully familiar story of the hatchet and the cherry tree, and some other material equally interesting and unreliable; but in no biography yet written do we catch more than the faintest glimpse of the every-day, home-circle WASHINGTON—the WASHINGTON whom his mother and wife, and perhaps two or three confidential friends, knew. These highly respectable ladies kept their knowledge to themselves, and the confidential friends, if any such existed, did the same. JOHN ADAMS, in his old age, was taken to Faneuil Hall to view the recently completed portrait by STUART. He looked at it long, and then said: "Ah, he was a wise man, a very wise man. He knew when to talk and when to keep silent; but that —— fool (pointing to his own bust) never could keep his mouth shut." If "silence is golden," WASHINGTON was a walking California, so to speak. His words were few and far between; his published letters are mainly on business, and his journal ended long before the time when its entries would have interested the general public. He loved and trusted HAMILTON more than any other man; yet HAMILTON has told us nothing worth telling, and lived and died in the firm belief that he was much the greater of the two. The staff officer who ventured one day to lay his hand on the shoulder of the Commander-in-Chief never forgot the withering look of rebuke which that freedom provoked; and even those nearest and dearest seem to have been chilled into formality by that majestic presence. Reticent and dignified to the last degree, he shunned all intimacy, and maintained an almost frigid reserve, which held him always aloof and apart from all. If he ever indulged in a jest it is not recorded, and not a single laugh of his echoes through the halls of history. We may be grateful, therefore—and under the circumstances it is something to be grateful for—to learn, on unquestioned authority, that, when sufficiently stirred, he could "swear like an angel from heaven." So Gen. CHARLES LEE emphatically affirmed after a personal experience of Washingtonian profanity on the battle-field of Monmouth. So the members of the Presidential Cabinet thought when, wearied out by their continual bickerings, the Washingtonian fist was brought down upon the table with a bang that shivered the glasses, and its owner exclaimed: "By God, gentlemen, I had rather be in my grave than here!" How refreshing to know that the nation's political father and patron saint was thoroughly human after all, and that his humanity now and then required the safety-valve of unsanctified expletives.

It is certain—and the fact has a deal of suggestiveness—that none of his colleagues had that profound reverence for WASHINGTON which is now a part of American religion. They respected and honored him, but did not, the ablest of them, regard him as their intellectual superior. HAMILTON, as has been said, considered himself the superior. JOHN ADAMS rather looked down on him, and FRANKLIN and JEFFERSON never took off their hats to that august personage before whom we are all taught to bow low. Was the judgment of these contemporaries wrong? Not altogether. WASHINGTON was not a great soldier when we speak of such soldiers as CÆSAR, FREDERICK and NAPOLEON. He was not a great statesman when we speak of such statesmen as RICHELIEU, CHATHAM and BISMARCK. He was not a great politician when we speak of such politicians as WALPOLE, BEACONSFIELD and DOUGLAS. He was no orator, no writer. Nevertheless, he was one of the greatest of men: worthy of the pedestal upon which the world's verdict has placed him to remain for ever. Great, not in any one quality of brain or heart, but great in the combination of all the qualities necessary for his high task in war and in peace. Great in self-control, in self-sacrifice, in perfect freedom from mean ambition, in absolute devotion to duty, in an integrity so sublime that not a breath of suspicion has ever touched it, in a patriotism so pure and lofty that his name is a synonym for patriotism and will so continue to remotest ages. The reverential admiration bestowed upon him by his countrymen may be, doubtless is, in some respects, unreasoning and unreasonable; but it will be a sad day for them and for their country when they cease to recognize and appreciate the supreme form of greatness embodied in GEORGE WASHINGTON.

WAR IN EUROPE.

That a crisis is approaching on the Continent no one who has watched the course of European politics will deny. SKOBELEFF'S speech gains its chief significance, not from its incendiary declaration of the undying hostility of the Slav race to the Teuton alone, but from the fact that this utterance is backed and indorsed by the whole course of Russian diplomacy since the treaty of Berlin. The antagonism between the two races is as old as the times of the Teutonic Knights, and there is nothing in the history of the last decade to reconcile the nations. German-hatred is a religion with the old Russian, and when Germany wrested from the Czar all that he had won at San Stefano, this feeling blazed into something akin to ferocity throughout Muscovy.

The Gospel of Revenge has been the one scripture upon which every party in France has united since WILLIAM of Hohenzollern was insolently crowned Emperor of Germany at Versailles. The issue which the French have nearest to their hearts is the humiliation of Germany and the retrocession of Alsace and Lorraine.

Italy, in pursuance of the policy which she has followed for the past thirty years, will naturally be ranged against Austria. Trieste and the Italian Tyrol are her present objective points, and Trieste may easily be the prize of a successful war. That Italy is no longer the friend of Germany may be seen as plainly in the coquetting of BISMARCK with the Pope as in anything else.

It is against Germany and Austria then, that the continent is arming. It is united Germany against the world. The Russian agents in the Slavonic States of Austria have been busily at work spreading the doctrine of Panslavism. A popular war abroad is felt by the counselors of the Czar to be the surest means of healing the distracted condition of politics at home. SKOBELEFF'S speech is the natural result of this feeling. He is not a fool. He possesses the thorough confidence of IGNATIEFF and the personal friendship of KATKOFF. Under the circumstances it is from just such a person as SKOBELEFF that we should expect the statement of Russia's intentions. His speech was meant not alone for the Servian students, to whom it was apparently addressed, but for France and for Italy and for Denmark, each of whom are lying in wait for Germany. It is a speech which may be disavowed with much courteous indignation by the Czar, but which will carry his message to the people, for whom it is meant.

What the result will be, time alone can tell. The foes of the Teuton have learned wisdom by experience, and single-handed they have fared but poorly in the German grip. Whether the two Kaisers can together rule the world will not be evident until Europe fairly reeks with smoke and blood.

PARTY PROSPECTS.

It is not often that we find so sensible a paragraph in the Republican as the following:

"The result in the coming national campaign cannot be forecast with any degree of certainty. The element of patronage, so long and successfully wielded by the Republicans, eliminated, and the result would be easier foretold. The days of Republican rule might be numbered. But in a time when the issues between the parties are so loosely made up and no great overshadowing question is to be solved, the power of a patronage so great as that now in the hands of the dominant party is difficult to be overcome.

Considering that the Republican is a thick and thin party organ, the above may be taken as a practical admission that there is no hope for Democratic success in 1884. Since 1876, when Mr. TILDEN was unquestionably elected, the situation has steadily grown worse for the Democracy. Then it was simple enough—a solid South and New York and Indiana were enough to elect a Democratic President. The South then was "solid," Indiana and New York were Democratic, and their respective Governors were chosen for President and Vice-President.

But both New York and Indiana have Republican Governors to-day. The "solid" South is broken. Virginia has a Republican Governor and two Republican Senators, for "Readjuster" is only a very thin and temporary disguise for Republican. Even Tennessee has a Republican Governor and Missouri five Republican Congressmen. And now on top of all this TAMMANY openly deserts the Democratic organization in New York, allying itself with the Republicans, and the new apportionment gives the Republicans at least a gain of a dozen important electoral votes in the States of Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota. Still worse, the control of both houses of Congress and the Executive will enable the Republicans to make new States, and Dakota and Washington Territory will be Republican States before 1884. Thus it will be seen that there is really no possible prospect for Democratic success in 1884 except in the contingency of a great Republican split and break-up. But that is not likely to occur.

If over-hopeful Democrats depend upon the folly of their enemies rather than their own merit they will surely be fooled. The naked truth and stubborn fact is that a Democratic nomination in 1884 will mean and only make certain Republican success. The Republicans can carry the election, and did, without New York. The Democrats cannot. The Republicans can carry the election, and did, without Indiana. The Democrats cannot. Look wherever they may, Democrats find no hope in their own condition—only some forced hope in the remote possibility of the division of their enemies.

The ancient Democratic brethren may as well recognize the truth. If they want the Republicans defeated in 1884, they cannot do it with a Democrat. The Democrats must seek a coalition with a wing of the Republican party and support a Republican. That is the only way which may insure a split in the Republican party. But that, of course, would lead to a reorganization of both parties on new issues and under new leadership. Even the Republican begins to see that the day has passed for a "regular" Democratic nomination, for it significantly says that "We are approaching an era of experiments, and that the next national struggle may bring about some queer associations." Yes, and the sooner the break comes the better. For the Republican party has as much rascality as the Democrats have donkeyism.

GRANT AND BLAINE.

THE country is indebted, the Republican party is indebted, the cause of Republican Government and human liberty throughout the world is indebted to James G. Blaine more than any other man for the defeat of the Third-term bosses at Chicago.—Cincinnati Commercial.

This is romance, Mr. HALSTEAD. We, who do not care one strawberry about the Republican party, and still less about GRANT, will tell you that GRANT was really swindled out of that nomination:

Firstly—By BLAINE'S unscrupulous and daring friends in the National Committee, who organized the convention, by allowing every one of the eleven Territories—who have no vote in Presidential elections whatever—to vote both in the Committee and in the Convention against the GRANT phalanx. Each of the eleven Territories had the same voice and vote in the national committee that New York or Pennsylvania or Illinois had, and all of them voted for BLAINE in the convention. They were nearly all Star Routers and contractors, etc.

Secondly—By SHERMAN, who used the enormous patronage of the Treasury Department and hard cash—yes, hard cash besides—to buy up from forty to fifty votes from the South—votes that belonged to GRANT, for the natural unbought sentiment of the colored people in the South was almost unanimously for him.

Thirdly—By WASHBURNE'S open treachery in allowing the Illinois delegation to be divided and the Grant men to be rejected.

Fourthly—By the Convention's refusal to respect State instructions on the "unit rule." This settled the business, though even after all trickery, treachery, corruption by the Treasury, etc., could and did do, GRANT only needed about fifty votes to be nominated.

The truth is that the nomination was bought and stolen away from GRANT and that nearly all the big corporations, railroad, lobbyists, etc., supported BLAINE, and that the GRANT men at Chicago represented far more respectable elements and methods than their opponents. It is a notorious fact that BLAINE and SHERMAN men had a great deal of money to spend while the GRANT men had none. This is and will be history.

A Tribute.

ST. LOUIS, February 18, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Died, on the 14th inst., at 3:40 p. m., Maggie, fourth daughter of Henry and Margaret Van Studdiford, aetat. 23 years and four months.

Silent and sad as all hearts are that communed with this lovely girl, of whom God has bereft us, it seems little enough for those whom she has left behind, to pay some slight tribute of words to her memory and character.

In person beautiful, in character and carriage dignified, in her affections tender and clinging; resolute, brave and unfailing in the performance of those duties which fell to her lot to perform, she was withall as pure and elevated as the snows which crown the Alpine Hills, yet as melting and gentle as they are, when the summer sun has taught them to flow in silent rivulets down the mountain side, giving life and vigor to the hills and valleys below.

Her life was a poem, and a poet has described her:

Light as the angel shapes that bless
An infant's dreams, yet not the less
Rich in all woman's loveliness;
With eyes so pure, that from their ray
Dark vice would turn abashed away,
Blinded like serpents when they gaze
Upon the emerald's virgin blaze,
Yet filled with all youth's sweet desires,
Mingling the meek and vestal fires
Of other worlds with all the bliss
The fond, weak tenderness of this;
She died as she had lived.
Not like the quarry slave at night
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust.

She came to her death with her eyes of violet (in very truth the windows of her soul) fixed in tearful tenderness and trust on the image of God. In death she was inexpressibly beautiful.

None came within the circle of her smile in life but left her better, gentler, yet more courageous; and those indeed were blest who clung to her dying couch and stood about her lonely grave, because they felt the refining influence of that sweet bitterness of grief which knows that the hand that had sown had garnered the beautiful flower. They turned away with thankfulness to God that such a one had lived. D.

Well Meant, But Much Mixed.

From the Galena Press.

The POST DISPATCH has just finished its third year, and celebrates the anniversary with a brief review of what it has accomplished. The publication of the POST was commenced January 10, 1879, by John A. Dillon, and the paper was printed at the Globe Democrat office. In December of the same year the DISPATCH office was sold at Sheriff's sale and purchased by Mr. Dillon, who joined the names of his journals and called his paper the POST AND DISPATCH. In May, 1880, the Evening Star was purchased by Mr. Dillon and absorbed. In the fall of 1880, Mr. Dillon sold his entire interest to Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, the present proprietor, and retired from the paper. The entire circulation was then about 5,000; since that time, under the present management, its circulation has increased to over 20,000; it has a new and commodious building of its own, a Hoe perfecting press with a capacity of 250 copies per minute, and another ordered, each costing $25,000. This outside showing of financial success is consequent upon the management, which has made the POST-DISPATCH one of the crispest, newsiest as well as ablest papers in the West. Though Democratic, the POST DISPATCH is in truth one of the most independent and outspoken of our exchanges. There is no cringing to supposed partisan policy when that policy does not commend itself to the manager. Some of its sharpest battles have been made outside party lines, and some of its greatest successes have been achieved against its own party rings. Such a paper, with such a policy and record, deserves success.

Gaining in Power.

From the Brunswick News.

The POST DISPATCH is one of the most interesting and enterprising papers published in St. Louis. It is Democratic, but its Democracy is of a type which the average Missouri mossback does not comprehend or take kindly to. It tells the truth too often and too sharply to meet with much favor among that class which prefers that the sins of the party should be hidden, or paraded as virtues, and that its blunders should be alluringly exhibited in the garb of wisdom. Fortunately for the prospects of the State, these unreasoning antediluvians are fast joining the "innumerable caravan," etc., while the POST-DISPATCH grows in power, gains influence and circulation, and sarcastically mocks at the fears of the Bourbons who refuse to be comforted by its utterances.

The Best in the Land.

From the St. Joe News.

It is an old saying "that one man is as good as another and sometimes a little better." This is not only true of men, but of newspapers. It is not often that the News speaks, or in other words, advertises free, another newspaper. But for once we lay aside the old conventional rules and allude to the POST-DISPATCH, of St. Louis, that truly bright, crisp and excellent afternoon daily. It is beyond question the brightest, best, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper in the West. In fact there is none in the country that surpasses it. Its editorials are bright, cheery, short and progressive. Its news department is full and complete.

Thickening.

Washington Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Mac is called "Little Mac," but he has thickened up in the last few years.

Does Its Own Thinking.

From the Bates County Record.

The POST-DISPATCH, of St. Louis, is one of the "best edited" papers in the Western country. It is a Democratic paper, but unlike most other journals holding to that political faith does its own thinking.

A Political Primer.

From the Philadelphia Times.

What is this on the Man's breast? It is a Dog-check? No; it is not a dog-check, it is a med-al. It is made of bronze. What is this on the med-al? It is "306." What does 306 mean? This 306 means that the Man is a charter member of the present Ad-min-is-tra-tion. Why does the Man wear the dog check? Because He is brave. Was He a brave Man? O, yes; a very brave man. He was one of 305 who voted—times for Grant at Chicago by or-der of the Other Man. Yes, yes; He is a brave Man. He is Al-so glad. Why is the man with the Dog-check glad? Be-cause he will Now get an of fice. Does every man who wears A Dog check get an of fice? Yes. Every one not Dead or in Jail.

O, see the man With a Red Head! He is A Boss. He don't Look like a Big man. But He is. A Boss is a Man who runs things. He is a Good man to have In the House. Sometimes the Boss gets mad. Then He swears. Have you seen a Boss Mad? Say Post Office to This one and then you will pinch his Leg. This Boss has two legs and Two Votes. He is a Great man. The President asks Him what To Do. His Party asks Him what to Do. His State leans up against Him. He is Boss. If he should die things Would stop so Quick it Would snap Your Head off.

Look at the Fat man smile! Who is The fat Man, and why Does he smile? The fat man Is Da-vid. He smiles be-cause He has No Party and gets All the Plums. He is In The tree The Man with a Par-ty is On the ground and Can only Have such plums as are Thrown to him. The fat Man roosts High and will not Come down Un-less he can be Presi-dent. The Men with a Par-ty on the Ground hate Da-vid, but they would Make him Presi-dent to get More plums. They are Nice men.

What is this? It is a Stal-Wart. Is it Alive? It is. It is Very much alive. Does it feel Sad? No, no; it Is not Sad—it is drunk with Joy and is glad of it. It wears A col-lar. It is a Brass col-lar. What is on The collar? "306." Why does it wear a Collar? Because it wants a Post-office. Does every Stal-wart want a Post-office? No. On-ly those who do not have a Post-office Al-ready. Can ev-ery Stal-wart get A Post-office? If it cannot it will shoot a President and Have a New deal. See How Sad the Man looks! What makes him So Sad? He is Sad because He made Gar field President. What makes Him so small? O, it is Sorrow. He was once Large and a great many of Him. Now Grief has Got him. He gets smal-ler Every day. Next week He can't Be found.

Who is the man in a White hat? He is a G. M. What is a G. M? A G. M. is a Con-gress-man and means a Great Man. He makes laws and Is in-spired by the Dei-ty. He can make water run up Hill by law. A post-office in his Dis-trict gives him more Trouble. There is only one thing he Can't do, that is, put Ten Men in one Of-fice. If he could do that He would be pleased.

See the man with the long, white Hair. Do you hear Him Howl? Why does He howl—is He Mad? No, he Is Not Mad. Those who Have to hear Him are mad. He is an Irish Pat-riot. Does he Want Gore? O, no; He wants Votes. Gore would make Him sick He will not lead the Irish to Gore. God is Good to the Irish.

The Men Who Make Presidents.

Washington Letter to Philadelphia Times.

Nothing more is heard of the man who made Garfield President. It seems but a short time ago since the woods hereabouts were full of him. He is now strayed or stolen. Perhaps he has been knocked in the head somewhere. At any rate, it is one of those "mysterious disappearances" which occur every now and then, of which you read in sensational headlines to-day and forget forever to-morrow. The man who first suggested Garfield at Chicago has gone to join the fellow-unfortunate who suggested Hayes. They are not in demand in this Stalwart age. They have given place to the man who made Arthur President. The man who made President Arthur enjoys that distinction without rivalry or competition. He is to be hanged for that job in June. He is even more unpopular than the man who made Hayes.

Parson Newman on Conkling.

From a Recent Speech in New York.

"I am proud to belong to that section of the party known as Stalwarts. I do so from religious principle and from intellectual principle. The names of Washington, Lincoln and Grant have been mentioned. I want to speak of another name—a name that will live when the bronze has melted and the marble crumbled and the canvas faded away—a name that will live while the stars shine—and that name is Roscoe Conkling. [Cheers for Roscoe Conkling.] A majestic model of a man—a man of more than Attic eloquence, of more than Roman logic—a man who can hold up his hand as Aristides of old did and say there is no stain of bribe there—a man who preferred to go down and out of sight rather than sacrifice a principle! All honor to the name of Roscoe Conkling." [More cheering.]

MR. W. C. STEIGERS

Will call upon merchants desiring rates or information about advertising in the POST DISPATCH.

A LIQUOR CRUSADE.

Drugstore in Ohio Guarded and Watched by Theological Students.

A Scuffle—The Druggist Persists in Retailing Liquor—A Band of Crusaders Organized.

OBERLIN, O., February 22.—A real temperance war is being waged in this place. It has been the determination of the people from the time the town was founded that it should be free from saloons or anything looking like the liquor traffic. Until recently this has been successful, but it has now become a town of some 3,000 inhabitants, and there are a considerable number of people here who would buy liquor if they had a chance. Last August there were two or three saloons started almost simultaneously. After indulging in all the means that could be devised, it was finally decided that there was no use in continuing the crusade against the saloons so long as the drug stores in town continued to sell liquor on prescriptions and otherwise. Mr. Rowland, one of these druggists, so the temperance people claim, was prevailed upon to draw up an agreement for all the druggists to sign, to the effect that

THEY WOULD NOT SELL ANY LIQUORS

on any account; that they would not keep it even for medical purposes. With this the saloons were closed, and peace and temperance reigned for some time. Finally Rowland sold out to a young man by the name of Bronson, who immediately began to sell liquor on prescription after the manner of drug stores in general. As the temperance people claim, he sold in a miscellaneous way to all comers who had the necessary cash. It is claimed by some that Mr. Rowland still in reality is back of all these movements and is backing Bronson. For a month or six weeks past the excitement has been getting higher and higher. Bronson has been pleaded with by committees of business men, women and college professors, but he has remained obdurate, and claimed that he knew his own business, and should continue to follow it to his own liking. Matters had come to a crisis, and must be made. Meetings were held, and a band was organized which pledged itself to follow the fight for three years, if necessary, and keep guard upon the place to see, first, that no one in the town buys anything in the place, and second, to keep students and others who would be likely to buy liquor from doing so. The guard consisted usually of two persons, and they were armed with note-books, wherein the names of all who came were to be marked down. Bronson immediately jected to this system of espionage, and

A DESPERATE STRUGGLE

ORDERED THE GUARDS AWAY.

A good deal of excitement and ill-feeling had been engendered up to last Saturday night, at which time Bronson removed all the chairs from his store. Two theological students who had been detailed to stand guard for an hour arrived at the store at about 6 o'clock. They brought camp chairs and prepared to seat themselves. There were a number of Bronson's friends in the store, and after the young men had been asked by the proprietor to go out, they were put out by force one at a time. They came in again as fast as they were put out for three successive times. By that time a large crowd had gathered at the store; the excitement ran very high. Certain parties who took the side of the storekeeper began to argue with the young men, and the proprietor told them that they should not attempt to sit down and they did not again attempt to. Finally, so large a crowd had gathered in the store that the floor began to give signs of giving way, and Bronson asked that his friends and foes all clear out. This was done and the store closed till Monday morning. By 8 o'clock Monday two others who had been detailed as a guard came to the store, and, as soon as they put in their appearance, they were ordered away by the proprietor. They refused to go, and

WERE PUT OUT.

There was scuffling of the proprietor and his clerk and friends with variations during the entire day. During the scuffle the glass in his door has been broken, one or two persons have had their clothing quite badly torn, and a general excitement prevails. Very little else is talked of. Meetings are being held by the crusaders, and it is resolved to continue in their present course until the place is abolished or the liquor traffic is stopped. The Sheriff was sent for to-day, and Bronson threatens to arrest leading citizens and professors. The crusaders claim to have much evidence on which to prosecute Bronson. This fight bids fair to be continued indefinitely.

ILLINOIS POLITICS.

Gossip Concerning the Race for Congressman-at-Large.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., February 22.—Within the past few days some degree of opposition has been manifested in different quarters against an extra legislative session for the purpose of redistricting the State. Some of the newspapers have already taken the position and are beginning to name candidates suitable for nomination for Congressman-at-large, on the supposition that the Senate will pass the apportionment bill substantially as it passed the House. It is alleged that the present Legislature practically exhausted itself upon the question of redistricting the State for legislative purposes, and, having failed to perform that duty, the redistricting for this purpose is properly relegated to the next Legislature and does not necessarily enter into the questions pressing for attention at an extra session. It is next claimed that, the meeting of the next regular session being only about ten months distant, there is no need to impose the expense of an extra session on the State, the election of a Congressman-at-large requiring nothing more than the nomination of candidates for that position at the regular State conventions of the two parties. This, it is claimed, would meet all the requirements of the State under the law, save the expense of an extra session and avoid the trouble of holding three special elections to fill legislative vacancies. This plan of meeting the case has gone so far as to have called forth already the following Republicans as eligible candidates for the position: Ex-Gov. R. J. Oglesby, of Decatur; Gen. John I. Rinaker, of Carlinville; Jehu Baker, of Belleville; Emery A. Storrs and Gen. G. L. Fort, of Lacon. From present indications this is likely to be the liveliest political topic in the State for some time to come.

Coal Land.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DEADWOOD, DAK., February 22.—A syndicate, of which a Milwaukee railroad company is thought to be the principal member, has purchased 3,000 acres of coal land northwest of this city. The beds show veins eight feet thick of an excellent quality of coal.

FATAL QUARREL.

Ike Hubbell, a ranchman, had a quarrel with his partner a few days ago while on a buffalo hunt. His partner shot and killed him and then fled the country.

ROGUES' GALLERY.

The Chief of Police's Photographic Studio.

Some of the Cunning Crooks Whose Pictures are There.

One of the improvements for the detection of criminals in large cities, made about twenty five years ago, was the establishment of the Rogues' Gallery, which soon proved its worth to the police. It is the most important feature of the present alleged perfected police systems followed in the metropoles of the world. Just who invented the gallery, and the date of its introduction, are facts that surpassed the research of the St. Louis department in criminal history. The St. Louis gallery is in many respects superior to those of larger cities in this country. It was established during the chiefship of Capt. James McDonough and now contains 1,240 classified pictures, among which are many of great worth to the Police Department, being the only photos of well-known crooks. The gallery is located in the Chief's private office, in the west end of the police wing of the Four Courts. Along the walls are hung the cases containing the photographs, each of which bears a small tag bearing a number and a letter. All the pictures are classified, and the names of the originals catalogued. The letter refers to the directory and the number to the paragraph containing the description and statements concerning the man. Attached to one of the pictures is a label marked "806, a." Reference to the directory discovers the following entry:

Name, John Mitchell, alias Rattle Snake Jack. Age, forty-two years; height, five feet eight and three-fourth, inches; hair dark, mixed with gray, whiskers and mustache same; complexion, light; ink anchor on left wrist; eyes, hazel; teeth, sound; build, stout; weight, 175 pounds; nationality, American; No. 8 shoes; racket, confidence and monte; pals, Nos. 209, 210 and 213; time, not known; date of picture, May 11, 1878.

Reference to Nos. 209, 210 and 213 reveals the fact that Mitchell's associates are John Kingston, Dave McCord and Thomas Tracy, a description of each of whom is given after their names.

THE DIFFERENT PHYSIOGNOMIES

and various facial expressions are a study for strangers visiting the gallery. While showing a party of visitors through yesterday Chief of Detectives Watkins was asked if the expression of the faces was any indication to the particular line of crime followed by the owner.

"I see a Philadelphia detective recently said that it was an easy thing to tell a criminal's line of work or 'racket,' as it is denominated, by the face, but I don't think so. No doubt it can be done in many cases, but it is a poor rule to go by. Many of these pictures are taken while the owner is studiously acting with his face, in most cases the expression cannot lon. Now here is a picture of a man es are squinted, apparently natural, not so. Here is another with one v closed, and here is another with most closed. Here is a man who his lips tightly, and all these important changes in the face, ne natural expression altogether. ch cases it would be impossible say anything about a man by studying the ce. Where the expression is perfectly tural we can go on it largely in judging a an. A quiet, inquiring, fearful face might ry reasonably be supposed to be a man who ould be guilty of some petit theft or sneak job, while an open, determined countenance is probably owned by a man who will attempt bolder deeds. But still the best sneak or meanest confidence man will possess an apparently honest, open look and even defiant, while a safe blower's cool nerve and determination depicted on an inquiring, quiet face might easily be confounded with a sneakish man. So I think it is a poor rule to go by. Though some people claim the ability to size up a man

BY HIS PHOTOGRAPH,

I am willing to admit that I would attempt it out very rarely."

"Do you change the pictures as the originals change?"

"Not very frequently. You see we have the man's name and age and the date at which he was that age, so that it is easy to add any important change to the catalogue. There are a few cases where we have built whiskers on a face. This makes a wonderful change in the outline of a face. A record is made up of private correspondents; newspaper reports, etc., are kept of what has become of the criminals. If they go to a penitentiary on a sentence, then the date and length of this is entered up. When they die, or are killed, as is the end of many of them, we take the picture out. When Muncie Burns was killed we gave his picture to his family; it was the only one they had."

Among the frowning faces here and there about the gallery is to be seen a photograph that strikes the visitor at first glance as unlike the rest. There are few more honest faces than that of Frank Failin, a young man who was driven to crime by necessity, as the police discovered after his sentence. In 1875 a well-educated young man left a comfortable home in Boston, Mass., to make his fortune in the West. Arrived at St. Louis, he found himself without money and unable to get employment. About this time the reports of a new character of thefts from the residence portions of the city came in thick and fast. All reports were of the same style. A young man had called in the morning and asked the servant for Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Brown did not live there, but when told this the visitor sent the servant back with an urgent request to the lady of the house to come down [illegible]ee him on business known only to her and himself. In the servant's absence the hat-rack and parlor center table were cleared off, and on the arrival of the mistress the mysterious visitor was gone. Failin pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in the pen. After serving his time he returned to his Boston home.

A few years ago an elegant wardrobe of Miss Catlin was stolen, and in a few days was arrested for it. The elegant dresses, wraps and circulars, a short time from Paris, where Miss Catlin had selected them herself, were sold to second-hand men and literally destroyed. A fine, water-colored silk dress was recovered from a Wildcat Chute alley wench, who had been to several Red River Hall balls at Seventh and Wash in it. It was smeared with snuff and tobacco juice. Fine velvet dresses were cut up by a second-hand man for vests. As Miss Catlin viewed the pile at the Chief's office, almost in tears, she expressed a desire to see the horrid man who stole them Creighton, who was an unkempt, silly looking fellow, was brought up-stairs. "Why did you do this?" exclaimed Miss Catlin. "If you wanted bread why didn't you come and ask for it. I would have given you money." Creighton burst out into a hearty laugh, was pronounced a horrid thing by the lady and led back to his cell. At this theft, as at many others, he had passed over $1,000 worth of diamonds without touching a stone. When asked about this he said he had been stealing since he was a boy and had passed $100,000 worth of diamonds, but had never stolen a single one. Ladies' wear was his specialty and he had confined himself to it.

Of nearly 1,500 photographs in the gallery, not more than a dozen women are to be found in the cases. No. 876 is the picture of a smooth face, thick, black hair, large, soft eyes and a firm-set mouth. The original was dressed in a fashionable-cut overcoat, wearing a gentleman's black silk neckerchief and high-cut vest. This is recorded as Ellen Price, alias Susan Wright, alias Ellen Rice, aged thirty years. No. 871 is the photograph of a good-looking man wearing a heavy mustache and chops. He is registered, "J. V. Sherry; pal, Ellen Price." Six years ago every detective in this country had a description of Ellen Price, for whom hundreds of women were arrested and obliged to prove their own identity before they could regain their liberty in every large city in the union. The woman was wanted to answer for theft footing up over $200,000. About that time the loss of $2,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry was reported from Mr. J. C. Vimont's residence in this city, $1,500 worth from Mr. Boyd's and $4,500 from Mr. Lyons'. Each of these gentlemen had about the same time advertised for house help. Among other applicants was a very intelligent woman of about thirty years who pleaded for work and agreed to accept the first offer of remuneration. Though she told a pitiful tale of misery, her appearance did not depote that she had had more trouble than comes to the share of mortals. Her bust was unusually well developed and the rest of her body in proportion. She worked industriously for two or three days, and suddenly disappeared one night with all the jewelry and other small valuable articles she could lay hands on. Two or three dozen strange towels and a dish she left in her room. The theft was reported to headquarters, but before a theory was formed another and another report of similar transactions came in, all giving the same details. A thousand circular were sent all over the country, and in the course of a month reports from the Chiefs of Police were received, but only read that "she has been here—got —— thousand." Each day the want columns of the daily papers were read over at the Four Courts and a circular dispatched to the advertisers requesting them to notify the nearest station in the event of any one answering that description calling. A short time afterwards Ellen Price and J. V. Sherry were arrested at the Palmer House, Chicago, with $8,000 worth of property filling out her slender frame under a man's suit of clothes. The line of work was then learned. She padded her clothing so as to excite the interest of a woman and a man's sympathy and in this attire she sallied forth to a residence advertising for help. Before this, however, Sherry had read the papers and "spotted" the house. As soon as she learned the location of the rooms she secured what she could and dropping her dress decamped in male attire. Mrs. Vimont went to Chicago and identified Ellen as the woman who had robbed the house. She refused to prosecute Ellen, who was sent to Joliet Penitentiary for seven years with Sherry. They are now serving their time.

A well known character is Sophia Lyons, alias Sylvia Lyons Smith. Her picture is number 807. She is entered up "blackmailer," and, it said, secured a victim at the Lindell Hotel in this city a few years ago, but he preferred to suffer his losses than secure notoriety for himself. At Cincinnati she raised a check for $3,000 from a real estate man, but payment was stopped before she obtained the money. Sophia's operations have been principally confined to the East, and she is now confined there herself for an unsuccessful attempt to blackmail a State street banker and church pillar at Boston.

SOPHIA HAS MANY WINNING WAYS, and soon makes a place for herself in the affection of her doomed victim, who is always a reputable, wealthy citizen. An appointment is made to be filled at some prominent hotel, and when she gets him in an attire in which no gentleman should appear before a strange lady she holds his clothes out of the window while he signs a check for a good amount under a threat of exposure. Sophia is now jailed at Boston.

Mary Hutningson and a pal are written down house thieves. A few years ago a young woman representing that her husband was a railroad conductor was making the rounds of first-class boarding-houses. She would call late at night with a probable story about trouble at her former boarding-house. In the morning the husband would pay the month's board in advance and furnish the best of references. A night's lodging was no great loss, and she accordingly rarely failed to secure entrance. After the house was closed she would admit her male friend, and, with outside assistance, they never failed to clear the parlor of paintings, books, piano covers and all they could remove.

Lucy Wilson, alias Dimmock, has a pleasing face, and is dressed in blue silk. Lucy was arrested at Hurst's Hotel, in this city, and "vagged." She was registered a "hotel sneak," and at the time of her arrest was lodging during the last Fair with some strange ladies, who lost their pocket money, which was found in Lucy's trunk.

An intelligent, laughing face is that of Johanna O'Brien, who victimized nearly every livery stable keeper in town and a number of dry goods and grocery stores. Johanna was a good-looking young woman and succeeded in this way. She would post herself concerning a certain family, and then go to a livery stable and secure a buggy or carriage on false representation. After this she would drive to a dry goods house or grocery store where the family was in the habit of dealing and order a large bill for Mrs. Blank. She represented that she was employed in the house, about the inmates of which she was well posted, as was ascertained on questioning. She would order the goods to be sent out to the vehicle and in this way escaped suspicion. After a long run Johanna was captured, but for want of prosecution was released.

A Recent Criticism.

It is proper to state with reference to the Southern Law Review's recent criticism of decisions in the Circuit Court reversed in the Supreme Court, the paucity of affirmances in the higher courts, etc., that the decisions upon which the statement was based referred not only to the St. Louis Circuit Court opinions but likewise to the business of the St. Louis, St. Charles, Warren and Lincoln circuits passing through the Court of Appeals.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

How the Personalty Returns are Underestimated.

The Great Loss to the City of St. Louis on Account of Dishonest Returns.

An Analysis of the Parts of Personalty —$55,000,000 Withheld From the Assessor.

The personal returns of St. Louis, as shown in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH, have opened the eyes of the public. A great many people who only knew about tax-dodging just what they read about it have run down the columns of figures there presented and have expressed great surprise at the result.

"Why," said one prominent citizen at the Southern last night, "I was inclined to doubt the statements made in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH, but the columns of figures prove their truth. If we are being swindled in this way, it is time that we ceased paying taxes altogether."

"No," said another gentleman, "but it is time that the citizens began to second the efforts of the POST-DISPATCH, and that the tax-dodgers should be made to know that they are committing a grave offense against the law. They are stealing, and from hard-working citizens and honest men. They are responsible for a large part of our bonded indebtedness and for the miserable condition of our streets. We ought to see that something is done, and done immediately."

That the speakers are right and that the returns published are simply a huge hoax, an analysis of the figures will show.

The returns, as published yesterday, show the totals of personalty for the year 1881 to be $27,466,760. This, however, was afterwards acted upon by the board, and it was reduced to the following totals, as taken from the Assessor's books:

THE DETAILED RETURNS.

	Number.	Value.
Horses	14,406	$805,070
Mules	1,921	113,120
Cattle	7,639	181,130
Sheep	173	380
Hogs	2,935	8,870
Money		2,362,400
Notes		11,986,300
Other personal property		10,572,980
Total		$26,030,250

People not familiar with technicalities do not understand the wide meaning of the term personal property. It includes everything owned in the city except real estate—except the bare land and buildings. It means every article of furniture, every piano, organ, violin, bedstead, stove, carpet, sofa, table, hog, cow, horse, mule, jennet; all the watches, chains, bracelets, lockets, rings, diamonds, books, carriages, buggies, phætons, harness, all notes and bonds; in fact, everything conceivable that is not land or improvements on it.

As near as can be gathered from statistics, there are 42,000 houses in St. Louis, and the foregoing sum, thus divided, would make the average return for each house $620 nearly. Taking the figures, item by item, it will be seen to how much the shortage in each amounts. It might as well be stated in the beginning that many persons who were consulted about the facts were reluctant to speak, and were especially anxious not to have their names mentioned for fear of offending wealthy patrons who are among the ranks of the revenue stealers. In regard to the first class of property on the list, viz., horses, a well known expert was consulted.

"How many horses are there in St. Louis?" he was asked.

After insisting that his name should not be mentioned, he replied: "Well, at least 20,000."

"And what are they worth in round numbers?"

"Hard to say in close figures, but I can approximate. In the first place, our citizens own a large number of fine roadsters and blooded stock. There are several horses in St. Louis to-day that could not be bought for $10,000."

"What is the probable value of the fine stock?"

"Well, there are at least 500 horses owned here which will average $500 apiece. That makes $250,000."

"And the remaining 19,500."

"They will average, at the lowest figures, $60 a head all around."

"That makes $1,170,000," said the reporter.

"Yes, that is about right," was the answer.

Other horsemen who were seen, coincided with this statement and scouted the idea that the

EQUINE POPULATION OF ST. LOUIS

could be valued at only $805,070. According to the best judges then the return of the horses alone should be increased to $1,420,000 at the least. The difference between this and the present return as taken from the books is $614,930. The mule returns, the same men declared, should be increased to at least $130,000, an increase of $16,880.

In regard to the next three items in the list, namely cattle, sheep and hogs, it is hard to get exact totals, but it is safe to say, judging from the other figures, that they ought to be increased at least $4,000.

The next item comes in the schedule under the head of "Money on hand, or deposited in bank or other safe place," and is set down at $2,362,400. These are preposterously low figures. Several of the larger banks of the city have nearly that amount on long deposits themselves. This is a kind of property which it is extremely hard to reach. As Assessor Powers said to the reporter, "It is easy for us to tax what can be found, like real estate, and to enforce our demands we can levy. But what is to be done in the case of money, etc. A man can make what return he likes, and even if we find where he has money deposited he can remove it, or get it out of the way before we can levy on it. Taking into consideration the fact that a number of the banks have always on hand time deposits averaging over $1,000,000 each, a bank cashier stated this morning that he would not hesitate to place the cash on hand and deposited at over $20,000,000, which is a gain on the returns of $15,637,600.

In regard to the item marked "notes," it must be remembered that in the blank which is sworn to by the payer it is explained to include of solvent notes, unsecured by mortgage or deed of trust, a like statement of notes secured by mortgages or deeds of trust, and a statement of all solvent bonds, whether State, county, town, city, township, incorporated or unincorporated companies. This is the language, as copied from the return blanks. Now, it was shown in Saturday's POST-DISPATCH that the books of the Recorder's office indicate that there are $35,000,000 of notes on record there, secured by mortgage or deed of trust. When to this is added the amount of unsecured commercial paper and the various bonds specified, it will swell the total to $45,000,000, a gain of $33,013,700. The last item in the Assessor's list is other personal property—$10,572,980." Reference to the blanks furnished for return purposes shows that under this head come pianos and other musical instruments, clocks, watches, chairs, etc., sewing machines, gold and silver plate, jewelry of all kinds, household and kitchen furniture, libraries, carriages, wagons and vehicles, surgical and optical instruments, billiard tables, office and store fixtures, etc. The whole of this is put down at the paltry sum of $10,572,980. How insignificant this is can be shown in one moment. Take the first article on the list, viz., pianos.

The reporter called upon Mr. Read, of Read & Thompson, this morning.

"How many pianos are owned in St. Louis?" he asked.

"A great number," was Mr. Read's answer. "All of the better class of people have at least one piano in their residences. Then a majority of the middle classes. It is hard to get at the exact figures, but there are a great many."

"Would you say that there are

15,000 PIANOS OWNED HERE?"

"Well, it is difficult to approximate. Agents find out that nearly everybody has them, from the fact that you can scarcely sell a piano in St. Louis now. I think you would not be contradicted if you put the number at 15,000."

Other dealers seen were sure that there were 15,000 of the instruments in actual use, and that they were worth on an average $150 apiece. This makes $2,250,000 for pianos alone. The other musical instruments owned would swell this at the lowest to $2,265,000.

Sewing machine agents called upon were sure that there were 30,000 machines in use in St. Louis, and that they were worth all around $15, a total of $450,000. The item of gold and silver plate will easily run up to $200,000. The next subject, jewelry of all kinds, will make a very big showing. Mr. Spyer, the expert, was called upon and asked about the diamond wealth of St. Louis.

"It is very great," said he, "much greater than people suppose.

"Is it a million dollars?"

"Oh, yes, much more than that. St. Louis owns at the lowest,

$2,000,000 IN DIAMONDS.

It is hard to tell for this reason, that when people buy diamonds, they almost invariably want the matter kept secret. I sell very often to people who caution me not to mention their names or the fact of the purchase.

If the diamonds are worth $2,000,000, other jewelry, in the opinion of those in the trade, can be safely set down at $3,000,000, making a total of $5,000,000. The number of carriages, wagons, etc., as near as can be approximated from the Vehicle Inspector's books is 15,000, which valued at $100 each, foots up $1,500,000. There are 100 private libraries in St. Louis which are worth $1,000 each. These totals will read as follows:

Pianos	$2,250,000
Other instruments	15,000
Sewing machines	450,000
Diamonds	2,000,000
Other jewelry	3,000,000
Carriages	1,500,000
Libraries	100,000
Total	$9,315,000

The amount of all other personal property, as given in the first table, is $10,572,980. Take from this the amount as summed up just above, and the remainder, $1,257,980, represents all that is left in the last.

For instance, it stands for all the kitchen and household furniture in the city, all the office, store and saloon fixtures, etc., etc. If it represented the household and kitchen furniture alone it would be miserably inadequate, as it would give an average of less than $30 for the furniture of the 42,000 houses of the city. The foregoing shows just as conclusively as did the comparative tables of yesterday that at least $55,000,000 of personalty is withheld from taxation every year.

OSCAR WILDE'S ONLY APPEARANCE IN ST. LOUIS.

The sale of seats began yesterday at Balmer & Weber's for the only lecture of Oscar Wilde in this city, at Mercantile Library Hall, and during the day a very large number of tickets were disposed of. This extraordinary commencement presages a crowded house and it is possible that standing-room may not be available. The coming of this distinguished poet and lecturer should receive universal consideration, as his genius and his abilities entitle him to respect and the kindliest hearing. The name of Oscar Wilde is familiar to-day among all English-speaking people, and yet he has but recently completed his twenty-sixth year. Such remarkable reputation cannot be acquired at such an age without the stimulus of a naturally great mind, for the world is not given to listening to every song that is sung, or the encouragement of untried ambition. There is evidently something beyond the ordinary in the philosophy of Oscar Wilde, or else the people of this country, like those of England, would scarcely consider his efforts with the respect due to genius. The New York Sun has the following notice of him: "Like a true poet, Mr. Wilde is not didactic. He has apparently no lesson to impart other than the old Greek one, that beauty, whether in art or nature, in woman's form or in the lily, is paramount to all materialism; that a network of railroads and all the devices of civilization do not necessarily help men on to true happiness; that God's flowers are more to be prized than man's factories; that there is that in the world which is better than gold and better than the luxury that with base merchandise piles up the gate where nobler thoughts and deeds should enter by." It is not startling that Oscar Wilde should be exaggerated among those who deem him a revolutionist, for all revolutionary thoughts and deeds are necessarily extreme; else the element of revolution would be wanting. It is the dignity of the thought and the nobility of the action that causes it to be considered at all. Such appears to be the situation now occupied by Oscar Wilde before the people, and St. Louis is promised a treat in his great lecture on "The English Renaissance," to be delivered next Saturday evening at Mercantile Library Hall. It should be remembered, also, that this will constitute Mr. Wilde's only public appearance in this city, and the opportunity should be taken advantage of immediately. A reception will probably be tendered him on Monday, and he will take his departure the same evening. Reserved seats for the lecture ($1) should be purchased at once at Balmer & Weber's.

Washington's Birthday.

Scarcely any unusual celebration of Washington's birthday is being observed to-day. The banks, the public schools, the City Hall, the Four Courts and all the Circuit Courts with one exception, that of Judge Lindley, are closed, but the stores all over town are carrying on business as usual. The clerks in a few of the railroad offices are enjoying a holiday, but more on account of the cessation of business consequent upon the rains of Sunday and Monday than because of the day. The Catholic and Episcopal churches held Ash Wednesday services this morning and most of them were crowded by the faithful. A few flags are floating gaily in the breezes, but these are noticeable purely on account of their rarity.

Identified.

The dead man found at the corner of Cottage and Prairie avenues yesterday was identified this morning as John Walter, aged forty-three years, a cooper by trade and living at No. 1312 Monroe street. About 9 o'clock Saturday night he left a saloon at the northeast corner of Second and O'Fallon streets in a drunken condition, and it is supposed went out to Cottage avenue without any object in view. While sleeping in a shed he was frozen to death.

The Coroner held an inquest to-day on the body of Sommers, the man who died from injuries received by a falling wall at the Olympic Theater. A verdict of accident was returned.

Honors to the Dead.

This morning Company A, First Regiment, N. G. M., issued an order commanding the attendance of the members at the Armory tomorrow at 1 o'clock, in full dress uniform, for escort duty with the remains of Sergt. Edgar B. Chadwick, private secretary of C. W. Rogers, who died in this city yesterday and will be buried tomorrow. Sergeant Chadwick was for eight years a member of the National Gurd Association, acting as its secretary for two years.

ONE MILL AT WORK.

Judge Lindley and a Jury Grinding Away at a Broker's Suit.

The peculiar spectacle of a court in session and a jury in attendance under the dome on a legal holiday was presented this morning. Every public department at the Court-house was closed for the day, and the Circuit Clerk's office was locked, but one of the Circuit Courts, No. 4, Judge Lindley's division, remained open, access to which was afforded through the western entrance, corridor and staircase. A morning paper was led into error in announcing the cause of Judge Lindley's session of court, which it styled as a "breach of decorum" according to the statutes on legal holidays. It seems that the trial of the option contract suit E. A. Kent et al. against E. B. Miltenberger was not concluded last evening at 5 o'clock, and it became necessary either to close the case last night or return this morning for that purpose. Judge Lindley put the matter to the jury, explaining that to-day was a legal holiday, and asked whether they would prefer to go on last night or come back this morning. The jury unanimously agreed to return and finish this case to-day, and counsel on either side, Given Campbell and Overall & Judson, agreed that to-day's entry should stand as of yesterday, thus avoiding legal defect. The courtroom was accordingly steamed up, and this morning at half-past ten o'clock the jury resumed seats in the box, counsel came in with instructions for approval of the court and the seats outside the bar were occupied by that mysterious, nondescript element loafing around the courts during the winter for the sake of the warm h and shelter. Given Campbell presented himself in new holiday attire after the Oscar Wilde order, neglige, and Messrs. Overall and Judson came prepared to fittingly honor the day with some infusion of loyalty in their address to the jury. The suit which has held the court and twelve men to duty to-day has been referred to already in these columns. The claim is that of E. A. Kent & Co., grain brokers, against E. B. Miltenberger for $2,698 25 commissions on account of sales of wheat for the defendant. The courts have held repeatedly that where no delivery of wheat is intended, transactions of that character can only be construed as wager contracts, and, therefore, not valid. In this case the defendants set up a corner in wheat as figuring in some features of the basis of the broker's claim as commission for sales of wheat. As this did not represent the actual market value of the wheat at the time, it was contended that a commission on an inflated price could not in any case be recovered.

GOING FOR THE GAMBLERS.

A Batch of New Indictments Found by the Grand Jury.

The impression has gone out that the bottom is once again knocked out of the prosecution of the gamblers. Motions to quash are pending, and a plea to jurisdiction is set down for hearing in the Criminal Court on St. Patrick's Day. A ferret of the POST-DISPATCH, however, has discovered that new indictments were prepared last week in all of the gambling cases now pending and are now under consideration by the grand jury in session at the Four Courts. These new indictments had anticipated all the points taken in the motion to quash which in the opinion of the attorneys for the prosecution were such as could be taken advantage of and it is believed that they possess the necessary sticking qualities. Probably the new batch will be returned to-morrow. Circuit Attorney Harris is assisted in the gambling prosecutions by United States District Attorney Bliss, who has been specially retained for the purpose. The motion to quash is perhaps not so important a movement of the defense as the plea to jurisdiction. Messrs Jeff Chandler, Patrick & Frank and F. D. Turner contend that the Johnson law is unconstitutional because:

1. It did not clearly express in its title the subject of the act of which it is amendatory.
2. The act was not read on three different days in the House and Senate prior to passage.
3. There was an omission in the bill as printed for the use of the members.
4. The bill was finally passed without being reported.
5. The bill was not voted upon in the form in which it appears.
6. The act is unconstitutional and void.

The Criminal Court granted time until March 17 for the defense to take depositions of the members of the Legislature in support of the above plea. Counsel for the prosecution take exception to this and say that such evidence is not competent, that the journals of the House and Senate furnish in record the highest evidence. The cases are set for trial in the Criminal Court March 27th. It is well understood that the Johnson law makes the conduct of gambling a felony and provides punishment of two to five years in the penitentiary or six to twelve months in the jail. Public interest attaches to this prosecution in the strongest degree and it is thought that at length the gamblers will meet their deserts.

Book Auction.

The sale of books by Haggerty & Dewes, at 210 North Fifth street, is still continued. Mr. Shaw has opened sixteen cases, fresh arrival to-day, and will sell, this afternoon and evening at 2 and 7 o'clock, some of the finest sets of English books that have yet been offered, including Macaulay, Bancroft, Thackeray, Chambers, Bulwer, Scott, Dickens, etc., in the finest calf bindings. Parties wishing the best editions, at their own prices, should not fail to attend.

The Delayed Mails.

In order that the public business should not be further delayed by the interruption of a holiday at the Post-office, Postmaster Havs kept the entire department open to-day and business was conducted there as usual. There was an eager demand at the delivery windows throughout the morning for letters delayed by the heavy rains and washouts. The mail which left Chicago on Saturday night by the Chicago and Alton line came through this morning, and the letters were distributed by carriers The Eastern Vandalia mails from Pittsburg came in over the O. & M. track from Odin, Ill., connection being made via the Illinois Central and Effingham. The San Francisco road brought in a delayed mail this morning. The Missouri Pacific mails left this morning via Springfield for Kansas City. The Chicago and Alton morning mail and the Eastern morning mail via the O. & M. road left this morning. This evening the Wabash mails, eastern division, will leave on time. When all the roads resume travel there will be an immense accumulation of mail matter coming in for distribution here.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

The School Board will hold their regular monthly meeting to-night, but will transact only routine business.

Bud Hammond and A. C. Mohair are being tried before 'Squire Bunyan to-day on a charge of keeping a house of ill-fame. The two little girls who were captured in the house with them are being used as prosecuting witnesses.

Schools were opened as usual this morning, but before 10 o'clock the board sent instructions to the teachers to dismiss the scholars for the day. The opening was an oversight on the part of the board and was remedied as soon as possible.

Capt. S. A. Tyler created quite a sensation last evening by shooting his wife. The bullet was extracted by Dr. Winton, and Mrs. Tyler refused to prosecute her worthless husband. The shooting was accidental, Tyler not knowing the revolver was loaded when he pointed at her.

A KING'S OUTFIT.

How the King of Siam is Furnishing His Palace.

From the London Telegraph.

The orders from the King of Siam for the furnishing of the new royal palace at Bangkok have created a sensation in Spitalfields, where silk has been specially manufactured to supply the largest demand for any one order since the furnishing of the palace of the late Viceroy of Egypt. The furniture for which this London silk has been required makes a pretty show at present in the establishment of Messrs. Jackson & Graham, of Oxford street, who have been entrusted with the execution of the order, and who show also the plan of the new palace for which the furniture has been designed. Popular interest seems to center in the wonderful royal bedstead, quite an edifice in itself. It is fourteen feet wide and twenty feet high, and has a dome-like canopy lined with rose-colored silk. It has the appearance of three European beds joined in one, the center part of the bed being about a foot higher than the sides. The material is walnut elaborately carved and gilt. The chief decoration of the carver represents the triple-headed elephant, the imperial crown, and the state umbrellas, which compose the royal arms. These arms are woven in, imprinted, or carved, on the furniture and upholstery of all the different apartments. For the queen's drawing room all the furniture is gilt, even to the Erard piano, and chairs and couches are covered with rich fancy silks. For the dining-room the side-board is of royal dimensions, eighteen feet wide and as many feet high. It is of solid mahogany, and is adorned with fine carving. There are furnishings also for the King's study and news-room, including a writing desk which is the envy of those who see it, for the council chamber, the audience chamber, the aquarium, the smoking-room and the various other apartments. To execute this large order several of the warerooms of Messrs. Jackson & Graham have been for some months turned into workshops. The important business of packing will take some time, and the shipment takes place during the present month.

What the Survival of the Fittest Costs.

From the London Sanitary Record.

It has been calculated by a recent writer on vital statistics that of ten children born in Norway a little over seven reach their twentieth year; that in England and the United States of America somewhat less than seven reach that stage; that in France only five reach it, and in Ireland less than five. He tells us that in Norway, out of 10,000 born, rather more than one out of three reaches the age of seventy; in England one out of four; in the United States, if both sexes be computed, less than one out of four; in France less than one out of eight, and in Ireland less than one out of eleven, and he adds this significant computation, based on what he called the commercial view of the vital question. In producing dead machinery the cost of all that is broken in the making is charged to the cost of that which is completed. If we estimate by this same rule the cost of rearing children to manhood, if we calculate up the number of years lived by those who fell with the years of those who passed successfully to manhood, there would be found between the two extremes presented in Norway and Ireland—both, be it observed, unnatural—a loss of 120 per cent greater in the first year of life, 75 per cent greater in the first four years of life, and 120 per cent greater in the years between the fifth and the twentieth, in Ireland than in Norway. In Norway the average length of life of the effective population is 39 and rather more than a half years, in England 35½ years, in France not quite 33 years, and in Ireland not quite 29 years. Thus, again comparing the best with the worst of a scale of vitality, in which both are bad, in Norway the proportion of the population that reaches 20 survives nearly 40 years, or four-fifths of the effective period, to contribute to the wealth of the community, while in Ireland the same proportion survives less than 29, or considerably under three-fifths of the effective period.

Narrow Escape for the Baby.

From the Hartwell (Ga.) Sun.

A family about to remove from town, having a hard day's drive ahead, the men, who were loading in a great hurry, gathered up bed-clothes with beds, tied up and loaded on wagons, not noticing that they contained the baby, just one month old. The mother came in directly, and lo! her baby, where was he? She took in the situation immediately, had the wagon unloaded, untied the bedding and out rolled her precious babe, almost suffocated, and it was only by the greatest efforts that it could be resuscitated. It had already turned black in the face.

THE grand jury meets at 2 p. m. to-morrow to continue investigation of some jail cases.

A Wise Father.

Washington Letter to Courier-Journal.

Senator Sawyer, who is one of the very rich men in Congress, is evidently eminently practical. After his daughters grew up, he called them to him for a solemn conversation one day, and said impressively:

"My children, you know that I am a rich man now, but you also know that riches are apt to take wings to themselves and fly away, so I would feel much happier about your future if I felt certain that you could take care of yourselves if I should lose my money and be unable to provide for you. Now, to please me," he added persuasively, "won't you learn to make your own clothes and to cook a good dinner?"

"Certainly," replied the girls with cheerful promptness, and each sealed the bargain with a kiss to her father.

Not long afterward they invited both their parents and a few intimate friends to dine with them on a certain evening, and, after the repast had been enjoyed and praised by all present, triumphantly announced that they had cooked the dinner themselves, unaided, and each had made the pretty dress they wore on the occasion. Their father, highly gratified by their obedience to his wishes, promptly presented each one of them with a check for $25 000.

RIVER NEWS.

THE levee around Laconia Circle, 165 miles below Memphis, broke last Thursday evening, and eighteen plantations are now submerged. The break is on the White River side at a point where it would do the least harm. The water at Laconia was twelve inches higher than in 1867. An almost incalculable amount of damage has been caused by high water in the lowlands south of Memphis. Nearly all the plantations are under water, and, as the overflow extends many miles back from the river banks, there is a great loss of live stock, fences and other improvements.

THE articles of incorporation of the Burlington, Ia., Packet Company have been filed and the company is fully organized. The capital stock is $50,000. Among the incorporators are some of the leading business men and capitalists of that city. The officers elected for the current year are: E. P. Rand, president; W. W. Kinnear, vice-president and general manager; Thomas Peel, captain, and Charles Shaefer, secretary. The business of the company is to own and operate steamboats and barges upon the Mississippi River from the port of Burlington to all points above and below. The Maggie Reaney is at present the only steamer owned by the new company.

CAPT. WM THOMAS, of the St. Louis Sectional Dock Company, was 70 years old on last Thursday. He built and owned the first sectional docks in the West. This was in 1830, fifty two years ago. The following verses, written by the Captain in commemoration of the allotted span, will be read with interest by his many friends:

THREE SCORE YEARS AND TEN.

Like as the traveler climbs the mount
And views the landscape 'round,
So three score years and ten we count,
With mind and body sound.

In memory each year recall
From childhood to old age;
We see a guiding hand in all
Our life, from stage to stage.

That power we call God's providence,
That shapes each act and thought,
Has been our guide and sure defense,
And life's great blessings brought.

We violate no law of health,
Of nature, or of man;
We covet no man's place or wealth;
We live by no man's plan.

The future to us no terrors brings;
God will his children save;
And thou, O Death! where is thy sting?
Thy victory, O Grave?

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis—ss.
In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
December term, 1881
Tuesday, January 17, 1882.
Helena Heatherly
vs.
William Heatherly.

Now, at this day, it appearing to the court that the order of publication made in this cause on October 28, 1881, has not been executed, and it further appearing from the affidavit to the petition herein that the defendant has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this state so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, therefore, on motion of the plaintiff by attorney,

It is ordered that said order be renewed, that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that defendant, wholly disregarding his duties as the husband of the plaintiff, on the 26th day of August, 1880, absconded for parts unknown to plaintiff, and has, without reasonable cause, absented himself from plaintiff for the space of more than one year before the commencement of this suit.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis, within and for the city of St. Louis, on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis POST-DISPATCH, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, this 19th day of January, 1882.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis, ss.
In the Probate Court for the City of St. Louis,
December Term, 1881.
Friday, December 30, A. D 1881.
Estate of Charles Eberle.

On motion of Christine Eberle, executrix of Charles Eberle, deceased, and it appearing that the order of publication made at the last June term of this court has not been complied with, it is ordered that the same be renewed, and that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased be notified that application has been made for the sale of real estate to pay the debts due by said estate, and yet unpaid for want of sufficient assets, and that unless the contrary be shown on or before the first day of the next term of this court, to be held on the first Monday of March next, an order will be made for the sale of the whole or so much of the real estate of said deceased, as will be sufficient for the payment of said debts; and it is further ordered that this notice be published in some newspaper printed in the city of St. Louis for four weeks before the next term of this court.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis, ss.

The foregoing is a true copy of the order of publication made on the motion of the executrix therein named, as the same remains of record in my office.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at the city aforesaid this 5th day of January 1882.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

The Ball in Aid of Memorial Home Last Night.

The grand ball and promenade concert given at the Southern Hotel last night by the Knights Templar wound up the series of entertainments for the benefit of the Memorial Home. As early as 8 o'clock the guests began to arrive and by nine the parlors, halls and dressing rooms were crowded. The damage to the railroads caused by the recent storms prevented the attendance of visiting lodges.

It was certainly a most brilliant scene. Knights in their full dress uniform were stationed at the heads of the stairways, or grouped about the halls on duty, while others, with different ideas as to what constituted the duty of the evening, were paying their devoirs to fair ones or whirling in the mazy dance. Postlewaite's band, stationed in the hall, kept time for the measured promenade, while Spiering's orchestra occupied the platform in the large dining-room that had been prepared for the ball and made music for the flying feet. The panorama of gaily-dressed ladies, and knights in their gold lace uniforms, decorated with orders; the martial music and the clanging arms; the hum of gay voices and sounds of laughter, made up a brilliant scene. Suddenly a bugle call was sounded through the halls, and each lady, deserted by her attendant knight, waited to see them come marching down the grand hall, headed by Spiering's band playing Bach's "Templars' Grand March," into the large dining-room, where the dress drill took place. The drill over, the knights were marched back to their dressing-rooms, where, relieving themselves of the burden of their arms, they returned to the promenade and ball-room, and each one addressed himself to the enjoyment of the evening. A delicious banquet was served in the ladies' ordinary in courses throughout the evening, the tables being handsomely decorated with flowers. There were a great many superb toilets, too numerous to mention, but prominent among them were the lady representatives of the interests of the Memorial Home and their assistants at the International Tea Party.
